

Madison school district Palcheff superintendent

John Palcheff, assistant superintendent of Madison Community Unit School District 12, and an employee of the district since 1953, was named the new superintendent by the board of education Tuesday night. He replaces Supt. Fred Riddle, who is retiring.

Riddle officially retired June 30 but has vacated the job because of vacation time owed him. Palcheff was named acting superintendent until July when he will become superintendent.

Also effective July 1 will be the promotion of Wade James, administrative assistant in charge of federal, vocational and special education. James will become assistant superintendent.

He will fill both the duties of his present post and of assistant superintendent, thus eliminating one administrative position in the district, it was decided.

Both Palcheff and James will receive the salaries of their predecessors in the posts they are to fill.

Palcheff received his bachelor's degree from Washington University, St. Louis, in 1959 and his master's degree there in 1961. He also has accumulated 60 hours of additional credit at Washington University and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Palcheff was a baseball coach at Washington University from 1949 to 1953, and from 1951 to 1953 also served as head basketball coach. He taught physical education and health there while coaching basketball.

Palcheff also played softball seven years with the Zollner Pistons of Fort Wayne, Ind., through 1953.

In 1953, he was hired as principal of Harris School in Madison and in 1957 moved into the principal's post at Madison Junior High School.

He was named Madison High School principal in 1959 and remained there until being named the district's administrative assistant in 1962. His promotion to assistant superintendent came in 1970.

James was raised in Pennsylvania and received his bachelor of science degree in education from Cheyney State Teachers' College in Cheyney, Pa. in 1941.

His master's degree was earned in 1951 at the University of Illinois and he has received additional credits since at the U. of I.

Venice school district $1.20 tax hike election

A referendum calling for a tax rate increase of $1.20 per $100 assessed valuation for the education fund was set for Saturday, June 30, by the Venice Board of Education at a special meeting Monday night.

The increase would be in addition to the current education fund rate of $2.05, the present allowable maximum without a referendum, and would boost the overall school tax rate to $4.026.

The combined Venice property tax rate for local-level government would rise to $6.609.

It was pointed out at the meeting that the large increase is necessary because of a continuing drop in assessed valuation, increased costs and the financial condition of the district, which is in debt.

The district last approved a tax increase of 40 cents in 1969 when that amount was the legal limit for a tax increase.

The limitation was eliminated when the state statute was amended the same year, the school attorney reported.

It was noted at the meeting that because of a drop in valuation, the amount of taxes now being collected totals $660,744, while in 1968 the $2.05 rate produced $730,377.

The new education rate of $3.25 would provide $1,061,837 in taxes, it was explained, but $773,000 of that amount would go for salaries, while there are outstanding tax anticipation warrants of $300,000, outstanding working cash fund bonds of $200,000 and other expenses of $137,000.

State aid to the district has been about $60,000 a year, the board was reminded.

The school administration is to prepare informational letters on the tax increase proposal for distribution to district residents.

Polls will be open on June 30 from noon to 7 p.m. at the school and at an Eagle Park Acres polling place.

Granite City district School talks will resume on Aug. 1

By MARION BARTOSIAK

Press-Record Staff Writer

Negotiations between the Granite City School District to reach working agreements affecting all employees for the next school year have been recessed until Aug. 1, it was announced at a meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday night.

New uncertainties in the school district's financial situation, arising during May, placed a roadblock to further spring progress of talks by the School Board negotiators and the unions involved, it was related at the meeting.

Airport cared vital for jobs

Evidence is becoming clearer that prompt creation of a new metropolitan airport at Waterloo-Columbia, Ill., is essential to the future of the St. Louis area, it was contended Tuesday by Arven H. Saunders, executive director of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority.

"Disclosure that major expansion of Lambert Field could cost the St. Louis economy 18,000 jobs at McDonnell-Douglas Corp. has put the rest for all time any notion that Lambert can serve as the area's primary airport through the Twentieth Century," Saunders said.

"James S. McDonnell set this potential loss in a forthright warning to his fellow business leaders that the enlargement of Lambert to meet long-term aviation needs could force his company to move many operations to other cities."

"His warning verifies what every professional, objective analysis has shown—including a major study made less than two years ago by the Northrop Corp. for the state of Missouri.

"Without exception, professional airport planners have said for years that it is not possible technically, economically or environmentally to expand Lambert to a viable future airport," Saunders said.

"If the St. Louis area is to compete with other cities as an air transportation center, a new airport must be developed at a new location without further delay. The closest and best site available now or at any time in the future is Columbia-Waterloo."

"Cities in every part of the nation and throughout the world would give almost anything for such a favorable location."

"Mr. McDonnell's red flag makes clear beyond all doubt that the concept of gotting team told the board that the district and the teachers are $12 per teacher apart in salary at this point.

He said a board offer last month provided pay hikes of at least $25 a year for teachers, and that most would get at least $55.

Hillmer cited an escalation of taxes in the past 10 years.

He called for consideration for taxpayers, and said the current Granite City salary schedule is better than any in the state that were approved in May for next year.

There are about 750 certificated personnel in Granite City public schools.

Hillmer said talks were recessed Friday with Local 66, which represents custodians, secretaries and cafeteria workers. The two negotiating parties are 30 to 40 cents an hour apart, he estimated.

He said the board has offered a 15-cent hourly package, including a proposed wage raise and fringe benefits.

The board is awaiting the outcome of contract agreements reached by outdoor crafts this summer before negotiating with school construction and maintenance workers—carpenters, painters and laborers. In the past, they have received settlements of about 80% of outdoor workers' terms.

There are about 300 non-certificated personnel, including the members of Local 98.

On the board negotiating committee for the teacher talks are Stucke, Board Member Monte Worthen, Hillmer, Assistant Supt. Frank Kraus and

Lightning strikes, damages Madison home

By WALTER F. STRANGE

Press-Record Staff Writer

Damage exceeding $1,000 occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ditch, 1730 Fourth St., Madison, at 10:10 p.m. Monday when lightning struck the house, igniting a fire in a crawl space when it reached dust.

Also damaged in the residence were the bathroom, where fire burned through the ceiling, and the master bedroom.

Madison Fire Capt. Elmer Smith said a bolt of lightning hit the peak of the house at the rear and traveled through an area on the third floor.

Lightning started a similar fire about a year ago at the home of Police Sgt. William Papi, 1802 Fourth St., four houses east of the Ditch home.

"My wife, daughter and I were in our living room feeling sorry for the tornado victims we saw on television when our neighbor, Mrs. Janet Yeager, came rushing over and told us our house was on fire," Jesse Ditch told the Press-Record.

"We were watching the news and I heard this tremendous noise that sounded like an explosion. It shook the whole house and there was a bright flash of light I saw through the window behind the television."

"I thought lightning had struck my neighbor's house and I went outside to check. I looked all around, but did not see anything and went back inside. A few minutes later, the neighbor came over and told us about the fire."

"I grabbed a fire extinguisher and ran upstairs while Mrs. Yeager telephoned the fire department. The fire did not find anything, but I felt the door of a crawl space I had nailed shut and it felt hot."

"When I tore off the opening, smoke poured out. Firemen were on the scene in record time and did an excellent job."

Circuit Judge Monroe killed

Circuit Judge James O. Monroe Jr., 55, of 9 Pine Lake Drive, Collinsville, was killed when his auto flipped over at 3:45 a.m. today on Route 130 at Glen Carbon Road. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Deputy Coroner Edward Rodney.

The auto entered a ditch, traveled 100 yards and ended on its top in a yard.

Judge Monroe was returning home after working late at the Madison County Courthouse at Edwardsville, it was reported.

He was a native and lifelong resident of Collinsville. He served as a circuit judge since 1967 and was chief circuit judge for two one-year terms.

Judge Monroe was president of the Illinois Circuit & Appellate Judges Association in 1967. He authored two books and numerous articles on aspects of the law.

An Air Force veteran of World War II, he was a member of the British-Formosa war crimes unit investigating war crimes following the Japanese surrender.

He was a former president of the Madison County Bar Association and a member of various bar and civic associations.

His father, James O. Monroe Sr., a state senator and editor and publisher of the Collinsville Herald, died in 1968. The judge's brother, Karl Monroe, is the

Schuler heads United Fund civic division

Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City will be chairman of the Civic Division of the October drive of the Tri-Cities Area United Fund, it was announced today.

The Civic Division includes government employees, U.F. agencies, the clergy, broadcast media, schools and universities, some labor groups, local clubs and certain residential areas.

Mayor Schuler, an owner of Midtown Pharmacy, has served on the City Council and on the Park Board, including the park district presidency.

Married and the father of four daughters and three sons, he attended Sacred Heart School, Granite City High School, Arkansas State College, Washington University and the St. Louis College of Pharmacy.

The mayor is an Army veteran.

His memberships include St. Margaret Mary Church, Padua, Inc., Granite City Rotary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Elks, Eagles, Knights of Columbus, Chamber of Commerce, Amvets and Warrior Boosters.

Tax bills will be received by Madison County residents in two to six weeks, County Treasurer George Musso said today. He has received 120,000 printed bills for processing from Dayton, O., and the task of sorting them has started.

Chouteau, Venice, Edwardsville, Jarvis and Helvetia Townships budgeted for tax collection and will handle mailing of their bills as well as operating centers for payment. All other bills will be mailed by Musso and may be paid at any bank in the county, he said.

Instead of June 1, penalties will begin 30 days after the date of mailing. Questions on whether personal property taxes apply to small businesses are to be referred to Musso, who also will accept payments by mail or at the treasurer's office.

Approve bigger treatment plant

By GARY SCHNEIDER

Press-Record Staff Writer

Plans for construction of a 23-million-gallon Granite City secondary sewage treatment plant received approval this week from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and have been forwarded to the federal EPA for final approval.

Mayor Paul Schuler announced Tuesday.

He said he was informed Monday night that the state EPA officials completed official certification of plans for the 23 million gallons a day treatment plant at 6 p.m. Monday.

A meeting was arranged for 1 p.m. today at the EPA office in Springfield for the mayor and members of the Pollution Plant Committee of the Granite City Council to receive grant applications and begin the process of applying for federal and state grants.

The $10.8 million plant will be financed 75% by the federal government, at least 5% by the state and the remaining 20% or less by the city, if all grants are approved.

"We now have to sandwich about six months of work (on grant applications) into about three weeks," Schuler commented, adding that final approval of the applications must be received by June 30.

A public hearing has been scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday at the City Hall on possible environmental impact and nuisance factors of the proposed treatment plant.

The hearing was advanced from June 26 because of the time squeeze, Schuler said.

At Monday night's Granite City Council meeting, Mayor Schuler told the aldermen he felt that when the city knows a date the federal grant application is to be considered, "we should jump in with both feet."

The council gave permission to the mayor, the pollution plant committee and a city attorney to go to Washington, D.C., with expenses paid, when the grant is to be considered, "no known things up," according to Alderman Ward Nann of the Fifth Ward.

Schuler commented that the city's application may be tied with applications for the current four-township sewer system plan, "because if we build a treatment plant, someone's going to have to use it," he said, indicating that the capacity of the proposed plant is large enough to serve both the city and sewage from the proposed four-township sewer network.

"We need the four townships and we need us," the mayor commented.

At least three sewer breaks and possibly a fourth have occurred in Venice due to a high water table, Jay Maurer, street superintendent, said this week. Maurer said two breaks exist on South Fourth Street and another has been noted on Klein Street between Washington and Jefferson avenues.

He said a hole has developed behind 210 Second St.; it may be a sewer break, or an old septic tank at that site may have collapsed.

Maurer said a complete inspection of the sewers was made last year and mud was removed where necessary, mostly in the North Venice area.

He said Edward Juncos, consulting engineer, has proposed a complete inspection of all Venice sewers after the water table recedes.

The aldermen approved a payment of $24,152 for M. W. Inc., architects-engineers, St. Louis, for engineering services on the treatment plant from Oct. 5 through April 30.

The council also accepted an extension to June 30 of bids from G. L. Tarrant Contracting Co. of St. Louis for construction of the secondary sewage treatment plant. The extension assures that the company will continue its original bid price despite the delay.

The city has been under a letter of intent with the company to award a contract since Jan. 5. The company's bid was chosen and accepted by the Granite City Board.

The secondary sewage treatment plant has been a point of controversy since the state and federal Environmental Protection Agency began questioning the capacity of the proposed facility last year.

Several alternate plans were completed, but the city contended the largest, the 23 million-gallon facility, was warranted.

Officials cited the four-township sewer program, anticipated area growth and possible impact of the former Marshall Division of Miles Laboratories wet corn milling plant in Granite City, a major sewer user.

Corn Sweeteners, Inc., Cedar Rapids, Ia., which ran the local mill, planned for six months last year, indicated in October it may reopen the facility if the price of corn products rises to where it would be economically feasible to operate here.

Three Venice sewer breaks

At least three sewer breaks and possibly a fourth have occurred in Venice due to a high water table, Jay Maurer, street superintendent, said this week. Maurer said two breaks exist on South Fourth Street and another has been noted on Klein Street between Washington and Jefferson avenues.

Seat belt 'fanatic' survives spectacular crash at Mitchell

By VALERIE EVENEDEN

Press-Record Staff Writer

Grotesque portraits of disfigured faces, enlarged to huge dimensions, plastered billboards in Britain as part of a campaign to remind motorists and passengers what can happen when human features are projected into a car window.

Loud howls of protest have been heard from the British public at the horrifying pictorial reminders, the visual end of a seat belt wearing promotion scheme called "Buckle Up."

"Buckle Up" program here.

John Hill of 2800 Birch Ave., pressed a scene of a car accident at all. To quote his own words he is a "seat belt fanatic" and has been the past nine years.

At 9:15 p.m. Saturday, May 19, Hill's dedication to buckling his seat belt probably saved his life. He was certainly prevented to disfigurement and a crippled body.

On that date, Hill's 1969 Dodge Dart was propelled from Interstate 270 over the guard rail on the Chain of Rocks Canal bridge incline, plummeted more than 20 feet and rolled over about 500 feet before coming to a halt.

Illinois State troopers and others at the scene expressed astonishment that Hill survived the crash.

He sustained cuts and bruises, had sutures taken to close a laceration on the left wrist and suffered bumps on the head and a neck injury.

Hill spent six days confined at St. Elizabeth Hospital and last week started out-patient therapy treatment at the local hospital for the neck injury.

Apart from wearing a neck brace, no visible signs of his ordeal are obvious, but it will be quite some time before Hill resumes his 17-year job as a salesman for the Norfolk & Western Railroad.

The accident was caused by an unidentified driver traveling west on I-270 at a high rate of speed, estimated by officers at close to 90 miles an hour, who clipped the left rear of the Granite City man's car, launching it over the 34-inch high

Historic sites, surface drainage topics of reports

The Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission yesterday announced publication of three reports of special interest to the region.

The publications are: "Background Survey—Surface Drainage Program," "Open Space and Historic Sites Preservation Study" and "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Metro-East But Didn't Know Who to Ask."

The subject matter of all three reports encompasses the four counties of Madison, Monroe, Randolph and St. Clair and the latter report also provides data on Bond, Clinton and Washington counties.

Two of the three reports, the Surface Drainage and Historic Sites, are illustrated with photographs and maps and present an analysis of the natural and historic features of the region.

The other report presents a tabulation of comparative population, economic, social and housing statistics for the counties, townships and municipalities of 1,000 or more.

The abstracts indicate the purpose of the reports as follows:

The Surface Drainage report presents an inventory and description of preliminary findings related to drainage and flood damage control in the four-county Southwestern Illinois region.

The Open Space and Historic Sites Study as divided into two sections. The first presents an inventory of historic sites in the region and presents a program for their preservation.

The second section gives an inventory and analysis of natural features of the region and presents an open space system for each county.

The third report is designed to provide information on the region and its components for use by public officials and other interested persons and to them in preparation of grant-in-aid or market studies, and/or the identification of regional assets.

Two GC chiropractors attend medicare meet

Dr. F. E. Shively and Dr. W. B. Heideke of Granite City were among more than 100 chiropractors from Illinois, Kentucky and Indiana who took part in a seminar this week on treating patients through the medicare program.

A daylong seminar concerned the implementation of chiropractic services in the federal medicare program beginning July 1 when legislation to include chiropractic services in the program becomes effective. The seminar was conducted by the American Chiropractic Association.

Workshops this week for recreation aides

Recreation leaders and aides in the Granite City Park District's summer playground program, which starts Monday, will attend workshop sessions today and again at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Nameoki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin avenues.

Mrs. Helen Bjorkman, summer recreation director, said 35 leaders and aides will be employed during the summer months to supervise activities at recreation centers in the community.

Benefits planned to aid Ronald Lowe fund

Benefit events to aid the Ronald Lowe family, including proceeds from car washing for a two-day period from Passport on Nameoki Road, are being planned in the Quad-Cities, a spokesman for the family said this week.

An account has been established at Granite City Trust & Savings Bank, 1909 Edison Ave., where donations may be sent to the Ronald Lowe Fund.

Contributions, totaling $14 to date, will be used to help the Granite City family meet financial obligations resulting from a May 26 auto crash which claimed the life of Michelle Christine Lowe, 5 years old, critically injured her 8-month-old sister, Melissa Denise, and incapacitated the father, Ronald, 36, for the next nine to 12 months.

The accident occurred on Highway 21, about 12 miles north of Doniphan, Mo., where the family was driving to spend the Memorial Day weekend with the Lowe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lowe of Granite City, who have a country home nearby.

The family auto, demolished in the crash, was not insured neither did the Lowes have any medical insurance, as the father only recently was accepted for membership in an insurance plan at his place of work.

Lowe, who had worked full-time at a St. Louis printing firm for only a few weeks, is a patient at the John Cochran Veterans' Hospital, St. Louis, for treatment of fractures to the pelvis and right arm and a shattered left leg. He is expected to remain hospitalized many months.

The Lowe's youngest child, Melissa Denise, underwent brain surgery lasting several hours at St. Louis Children's Hospital. She still remains unconscious and in critical condition with skull and leg fractures.

Mrs. Donald (Vada) Krajnovich, 1112 Greenwood St., Moulton, a sister of Lowe, said today that Harold Moreland, manager of Passport Gas and Wash, 3318 Nameoki Road, has agreed to donate all proceeds from the firm's $1.50 car wash service on Saturday and Sunday, June 23 and 24, to the Ronald Lowe Fund.

In the event of rain, the car wash project will be postponed until the following weekend, she said.

Cat-kitten adoption clinics here in June

In observance of "National Cat and Kitten Month," the Quad-City Association for Protection of Animals will sponsor cat-kitten adoption clinics each Saturday during June at Aqua Land, 1233 Nineteenth St.

Calico, long haired and other breeds of cats and kittens are to be offered. All animals have received inoculations; these adopting the pets are asked to pay a small fee to cover the cost, a spokesman said.

SIUE to revert to telephone dial system

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will discontinue use of touch-tone telephone equipment and convert to standard dial service early in the fiscal year beginning July 1. The changeover is expected to save SIUE $11,000 during the first year and more than $18,500 annually in subsequent years.

The changeover involves about 1,500 telephones at Edwardsville, Alton and East St. Louis.

"We are making this change as part of our continued effort to reduce expenses wherever possible," B. D. Hudgens, vice president for business affairs, said.

Current Illinois Bell Telephone Co. tariff rates provide for a $5 per unit charge for each unit changed, which will reduce the savings during the first year.

Because of the expense, touch-tone systems are being removed from all state institutions, Hudgens said.

Last October Lawrence F. Dilling, manager of the Telecommunications Division of the Illinois Department of General Services, sent a letter to the university which said, in part, "In terms of basic configurations your campus has the best designed center system (this office has reviewed in the past two years) . . . management controls which you have instituted are having a more dramatic effect than even our President Sucke said, "I believe that the people on the other side of the table have just as great a desire as we do to settle this matter reasonably and in early August."

"Everyone in the district realizes from our 1969 experience that a strike is not good for either party and is a severe penalty upon the pupils, to whom both parties have an over-riding obligation."

"The education of the children is, after all, an important concern of us all."

6 months given to try to sell Madison bridge

The Madison City Council Tuesday night approved Thomas Reiter of Chesterfield, Mo., to have exclusive listing for proposed sale of the Chain of Rocks Bridge and 170 acres surrounding property for six months, pending final approval of the legal contract by the city attorney.

Second Ward Alderman Richard Kismir informed the council that those formerly living in a house at 1906 Edwardsville Road have moved out and the structure is to be taken down within 30 days.

Fifth Ward Alderman John Haynes said structures at 906 and 908 Jackson St. that were gutted by fire had been set afire again since the last council meeting. He urged action to have the remains of the buildings razed.

Mayor Mike Sasyk instructed the legal staff to serve the owners with 10-day notices to level any hazardous property.

He also received several complaints about car parking and racing in the 800 block of Greenwood and Alton Avenue alleys. Third Ward Alderman Ray Kozielek informed the council.

Mayor Sasyk instructed Police Capt. Edward Zabotko to investigate the complaint and act to correct the problem.

A two-year contract expiring June 30, 1975, with the Illinois Department of Transportation, allowing the city $625 per year for maintenance of State Highway Three (Madison Avenue).

It is the feeling of several aldermen that this amount is inadequate to maintain the street property. But they noted that efforts to increase it have failed.

MORE ABOUT Airport

clinging to Lambert for the area's long-term needs is an ill-conceived dream.

"He has shown that pursuit of that dream can bring only an unending series of nightmares, with the most tragic kind of drain on the St. Louis area's future economic and environmental health."

"Lambert, of course, continues as the area's primary airport for the next 3-10 years. To best meet these interim needs, its master plan must be updated so that it can continue to qualify for federal aid."

"It would be in line with normal procedures for airports everywhere for the FAA to make funds available for this kind of master planning for Lambert," Saunders concluded.

McDonnell-Douglas was among those opposing an Illinois airport on the basis that Lambert was closer to the aircraft plant.

However, this stand now is regarded as backfiring, since the ensuing effort to retain Lambert involves expansion to include part of the McDonnell-Douglas property.

DRIVER FACES CHARGES
Clyde Kobensky, 30, of 188 Broadway, Venice, was arrested at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday as he was leaving the parking lot at Cur's Grill on charges of having an open can of beer in his auto and driving while intoxicated.

MORE ABOUT Seat belt

guard rail on the bridge railing. The second vehicle, a 1968 Chevrolet with Missouri metal plates, partially mounted the rail and was abandoned by the driver who fled from the scene on foot, Hill reported. Police have not yet located the operator of the speeding vehicle, he added.

Hill's auto completely cleared the railing, cartwheeling twice and then hitting a tree and turned over twice before striking two more trees and coming to a halt upside down against a fence—500 feet from the point it was catapulted from the interstate highway.

The vehicle was demolished.

Hill said he was "dazed," but caught a strong odor of gasoline. "I unbuckled my seat belt and climbed out the rear window," he said.

The door on one side of the car was "V" shaped, Hill said. The roof and chassis exterior were squashed.

He really doesn't know how he managed to stay conscious or climb out of the wrecked vehicle.

"All I know that God had to be with me and I had the seat belt buckled," Hill commented. He has been a seat belt diehard for nine years. Hill explained, "Even on my previous car, a 1963 model, I had them installed immediately and used them."

"I never leave the driveway unless they are fastened and even on a short trip, say to the drugstore, I find myself out of the drive unbuckled, I stop the car and fasten them up," he said.

Hill's wife, Geraldine, and 18-year-old son, Michael Kent, who was graduated Friday at Granite City High School, feel equally as strongly about seat belts.

"Some of the men I work with have kidded me over the years because I am so particular about it and the belts in my car look worn and crumpled instead of lying smoothly on the seat," the motorist said.

Hill said he wanted people to know about his amazing trip over the side of I-270 and beyond.

"Maybe it will impress someone else enough to use his or her seat belt," he explained.

"It wasn't luck escaping from that wrecked car—it was God and buckled up seat belts," Hill stressed.

Luck entered into the incident in one aspect, however. Bad luck.

John Hill had finished paying for his demolished automobile on May 15, just four days before the accident. But he is happy to be alive to start paying for a new car, equipped with strong belts.

Study bonds for new plant

Construction of a soybean processing plant near the Airport, near the intersection of the Airport and the annual dinner meeting of the Tri-City Chapter, American Red Cross.

The plant will take place at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Tempel's Smorgasbord, Johnson Road and Terrace Lane. Reservations, costing $3.50 per person, will be accepted through Monday at the Red Cross office, 1411 Twenty-first St., or by calling 452-1184.

A former member of the National Red Cross field director service for 14 years, Nasir assumed the duties of United Fund executive here in March.

ADM would try to sell the bonds and, if successful, would give title to the soybean plant and property to the city in return for the funds.

The company then would lease the facility from the city, with the city agreeing to retire the bonds.

When all bonds have been retired, the company would receive title to the property and plant from the city.

The memorandum of agreement was necessary so the company could continue construction of the soybean facility, Lebo said.

"Illinois allows municipalities to issue industrial bonds with tax free interest. The statute was challenged in the Illinois Supreme Court and upheld," Konzen said.

"This means that any industry wishing to expand or locate here, you can help," Konzen said. "This may be our first step in bringing more companies into our community and creating more jobs."

"If (the Castings Division of) General Steel Industries would ever try to revitalize, you could help under this plan," he added.

The bond program "does not pledge the credit of the city or debt the city," he said, adding that the city retains title to the property until the bonds are retired.

ADM can pay off at any time and recapture the title, he said. ADM will be responsible for sale of the bonds and will pay all costs involved. The temporary agreement will remain in effect for 180 days, during which final agreements can be made, Konzen explained.

If the issue is not finalized within the 180 days, the memorandum of agreement will be null and void.

Red Cross dinner to feature UF executive

S. T. "Pete" Nasir, executive director of the Tri-Cities Area United Fund, will be guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Tri-City Chapter, American Red Cross.

The plant will take place at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Tempel's Smorgasbord, Johnson Road and Terrace Lane. Reservations, costing $3.50 per person, will be accepted through Monday at the Red Cross office, 1411 Twenty-first St., or by calling 452-1184.

Storm causes damage, some power failures

A rainstorm struck the Quad-City area Monday night, with high winds that downed tree limbs and lightning which hit in several areas, including a home in Madison.

An Illinois Power Co. official said lightning burned out three or four transformers and at least one wire. Two repair crews worked until 2:30 a.m. Tuesday making repairs. All power outages were ended within two to three hours.

Rainfall during the 24 hour period which ended at 8 a.m. Tuesday totaled 3.28 inches, the heaviest storm thus far in 1973. The day's rain exceeded the 2.31 inches in rain during all of May.

Thus far in June, 3.94 inches of precipitation have fallen; the normal for the whole month of June is 4.27 inches. In addition to Monday night's rain, 1.32 of an inch was measured at 8 a.m. Monday and .52 of an inch in the previous 24-hour span.

A string music program will be conducted for 95 fourth grade students in Granite City elementary schools during the new school year, according to plans approved by the Board of Education Tuesday night.

Six schools were chosen for a pilot program: Frohardt (15 students), Maryville (14), Nameoki (12), Niedringhaus (9), Parkway (8) and Webster (8), a total of 66 students.

In addition, interested fourth graders at Lake, St. Louis, Washington, Logan, Johnson, Emerson, Marshall and McKinley are to meet before classes start for the day.

According to proposals by Miss Beune and the School Board, students from Washington, Johnson, Emerson and Logan will meet on Tuesday and Thursday mornings at Lake, and those from Stallings, Marshall, McKinley and Lake will meet Wednesday and Friday mornings at Lake. Parents will be responsible for transportation.

Miss Beune indicated that interested fifth and sixth grade students will be added to the program in the fall.

Brigh upswing of Cougar golf fortunes due to frosh

It takes a brash college freshman sometimes, in sports particularly, to go right to the truth of an athletic problem. Or, the solution of a sports puzzle.

The question was: what had been behind the terrific turnaround of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville golf team's fortune from last season's just so-so campaign to this year's huge success?

Cougar freshman Doug Macalla, a resident of the Lone Star state of Texas (Brownsville), promptly and confidently fielded the query as his teammate, Terry Soucek, a senior, mulled it over for a more diplomatic answer.

Said Macalla: "It was the terrific Trio of freshmen who caused it. 'Last year, there were really only six guys who could play and consequently there wasn't the competition for sports as there has been this season.' The terrific Trio is composed of Macalla, Macall's Keith Swinall and Edwardsville's Mike Trebing.

I talking to both Soucek and Macalla, the importance of confidence in all sports is again borne out.

Under SUE's golf coach, Harry Gallatin, the season is now being divided into fall and spring campaigns.

This past fall, the leader of the Cougar pack was Soucek with a 77-stroke average over 14 rounds. Macalla was seventh with a respectable 79.1. This spring, after the Cougar's successful season, Macalla was No. 2 in overall play, while Soucek had slipped to fourth.

Soucek's career in golf, however, is a 1 d encourage all those men and women who have hesitated about taking up the sport late in life. Not that Terry's that odd, but the fact is, he didn't play golf until the summer after he graduated from Belleville West. Then, because most of his friends were playing golf, he decided to take up the sport.

Enrolling at Belleville Area College, Soucek decided to try out for the Dutchemen's team, coached by Bob Klube, now athletic director.

There, under the coaching of Klube and Gary McDaniel, he at Belleville Clinton Hills Country Club, Soucek began to bloom as a golfer.

After finishing his two years at BAC, he entered SUE two years ago and, as a "walk on," tried out and made the Cougar golf team.

This matter of confidence we were talking about. Let Soucek tell what can happen. "After last fall's season, I believed I could beat the world. Then early this year, the last of January, I played in the Dixie Amateur at Miami, Fla., and found, to my dismay, that my game wasn't as sharp as it should have been and I began to lose my confidence."

Pausing, and frowning, he added: "I think I have it now." Macalla peeked his game. The end of the regular season. He paced the Cougars in their victory over SIU-Carbondale as he fired a par 72 over the tough West Frankfort Country Club course. It was, incidentally, the first time that a SUE varsity team had ever played a beat on a Saluki team.

At the end of the interview, both were asked: "How would their coach, Harry Gallatin, do against each?"

Without hesitation they both said, almost in unison, "I'd beat him." Gallatin's answer: "I'll see after we get back from the national NCAA college division finals June 12-15 at the University of California, Riverside."

Golden era of athletics ends at Coolidge Jr. High School

With Granite City having two high schools next year, the junior high schools will no longer have ninth grades in their programs.

The change ends a "Golden Era" of athletics which possibly boasts one of the best records in the Midwest.

The ninth grade coaching staff at Coolidge Junior High has a background as rich as the school's athletics which is as follows:

John Tencoff, graduated from the University of Illinois where Bob Zupke provided fundamental football, and he starred on the Illinois baseball squad. After graduation, he rose to professional baseball heights with the Boston Braves and was a teammate of Babe Ruth.

Keith Parker, a track and football star at Missouri University where he played on two conference championship teams and the Sugar Bowl team. In the Marine Corps V-12 program, he was sent to Purdue University and played on its undefeated national championship squad of 1943. After the war, he was drafted by the Baltimore Colts professional football team. He coaches football and track.

Richard Williams—Granite City High School star of the sweet sixteen squad in 1960. He attended Bradley University when it was a powerhouse in the Missouri Valley Conference. He was one of the Granite City "greats" in basketball. He has produced fine basketball squads at Coolidge.

Robert Moske, a graduate of Central University, who has guided the wrestling and tennis programs for 11 years.

Football: Each fall, Tencoff and Parker meet about 80 youngsters who are starting their football careers and each season they seem to develop into well-drilled gridiron powerhouses. Since 1957, when they started their poorest season 3-31, they have ground out 103 wins, 12 losses and 2 ties (with only seven-game schedules). They have posted 10 undefeated seasons in 17 years and won the conference title seven out of nine years of its existence. The team's longest winning streak was 37 victories in a row.

Basketball: The pre-Rich Williams era from 1957-1966 in basketball was most respectable with 101 wins as opposed to 78 losses. However, since Rich Williams started his program, year after year they have been tough to beat, almost impossible, with 110 victories against 27 defeats, giving Coolidge an overall record of 211 wins, 103 losses in 17 years.

Track: Took a meteorical rise in 1967 when Parker took over the reins as the cinderman. The records from 1957-1966 were intermittent and incomplete. However, from that time on the Braves became a powerhouse and have turned in a fabulous record.

In 1967 the Braves lost one meet and in 1968 they lost one with 14 victories, but that was the last loss in dual and triangular meets, as the Braves posted 37 straight victories, meeting the best schools in the area which are rich in track talents.

Their overall record in dual and triangular meets is 51 Robert Whelan.

wins and two losses. The Braves won four of six conference championships and have won every city championship for the past five years. They were always the team to beat in the large invitational track meets in the area.

Baseball: With average seasons for the last five years, the young warriors were tough in the previous 12 years by posting 129 wins against 64 losses. 31 of the losses coming piled up in the last five seasons.

Wrestling: 18 years of wrestling highlights: 20 dual in the last five seasons. meets, 155 wins, 44 losses, 1 tie; undefeated seasons: 1959, 60; 1960, 61; 1961, 62; 1962, 63; 1963, 64. The team had an undefeated string of 45 matches. Coolidge lost its first match 22-23, then posts its 45 straight wins. The team is coached by Moske and Larry Carli.

Tennis: In 11 years, the Braves netmen have produced 81 victories to 28 losses. In the 11 years, 13 boys have completed undefeated seasons.

"To try to name the outstanding young men who have posted these fabulous records would be impossible," the coaches said, "as it would include thousands of boys. There has been an unusual spirit and tradition in this school which seems to have permeated out into these boys' lives. They return to the school frequently with pride of their accomplishments and this is the gratifying payoff for the coaches in this final hour."

Other men associated with the program are Frank Kraus, Bill Terrell, Bill Pyle, Glenn Haasings, Robert Ward and Robert Whelan.

Steele edges Gerald in cycle duel; over 100 compete here

From Kansas, Missouri and Illinois in the Midwest, and Tennessee, Kentucky and Louisiana in the South, over 100 riders invaded Tri-City Speedway Tuesday night to participate in the American Motorcycle Association's 1973 season opener of short track cycle racing.

By the end of the evening, Mike Gerald, Baton Rouge, La., and Al Steele, East Alton, had made it known they were in strong contention for the crown now worn by Robert E. Lee of Fort Worth, Tex., the defending champion.

Over 900 spectators were on hand as Gerald and Steele, both former champions in their geographic areas, engaged in a duel as to who could win the most events and therefore gain a foothold in the point standings.

Steele won the first round, zipping around the quarter-mile oval in 15.50 seconds to take top honors in time trials, while Gerald had to settle for the third fastest time of 15.84. Paul Pressgrove of Tecumseh, Kan., was second fastest with a one-lap time of 15.76.

Steele outdressed second-place finisher Gary Cape of St. David, Ill., to capture the first heat race and the second round of the battle.

Gerald counter-attacked with a first-place finish in the fourth heat; Gary Sykes of Memphis, Tenn., was second.

The next round went to Steele, as he took the checkered flag just ahead of Ed Wilson of Springfield to win the first semi-event.

As the showdown approached, Gerald appeared to be the likely overall winner, as he defeated Cape to capture the second semi-event, and then powered his Ossa cycle to victory over Steele's Yamaha in winning the 12-lap feature event.

But when the lineup for the final event, a trophy dash, was called, Steele was the only one of the two to answer. Gerald's cycle was in the pits with a broken clutch, thus denying him a clean sweep of all events he had entered, and the point lead.

Nineteen-year-old Al Steele emerged the victor; he led the event from start to finish, with Pressgrove finishing a close second.

Pressgrove and Mike Ladd of Paducah, Ky., were the only other event winners: Pressgrove took the third heat and Ladd the second heat.

Steele, the only rider last year to defeat Lee in a race, said, "I would've been a sweeter victory if I had defeated Lee instead of Gerald tonight. But I can wait."

Lee, who was expected to be on hand to defend his title, is home recuperating from injuries received last weekend in a racing accident at Flint, Mich., and is to be out of competition for at least a month.

After that time, he is expected to join the Tuesday night cycle racing at Tri-City and resume the battle where Gerald left off.

Swim lessons to start Monday at park pool

Tim Van Hoven, manager of the Wilson Park pool, announced this week that group swimming instructions again will be offered to residents of the Granite City Park District beginning next week.

Registration for all classes must be made in person at the pool office between 2 and 6 p.m.

Sessions have been arranged for children 8 to 13 years of age, adults and mothers and infants, 4 months to 7 years.

Two separate sessions for boys and girls will be held during the summer months, Van Hoven said.

Boys' classes are set for Monday, June 11, to June 22 and from July 9 to July 20. Girls will attend classes from June 25 to July 6 and from July 23 to Aug. 3.

Instructions for boys and girls will be given at three levels of ability, with times remaining the same at all sessions, scheduled Monday through Friday, Hoven said.

Beginner classes will take place from 9:45 to 10:30 a.m. and from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m. Advanced beginners and intermediate swimmers will attend sessions from 9 to 9:45 a.m. weekdays.

The schedule of adult classes is:

Women—11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Wednesday; men—10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday; and adult free swimming periods from 11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. daily. The latter hour will be arranged if sufficient interest is shown, the manager said.

Mother-infant classes will be conducted from 11:30 a.m. until noon daily. Further information about the series may be obtained at the pool office.

Maxwell said the weather seemed to have decreased the number who attended the circus over the number in previous years, but said the parade here last Thursday evening drew a record crowd. He estimated that 30,000 persons lined streets of Granite City to see the parade.

The parade in Belleville will begin at 8 p.m. tomorrow, with circus performances Saturday at 2 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday performances will be at 1, 4 and 7:30 p.m. and shows also are scheduled Monday and Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. each day.

Maxwell warned that tickets

Rain blocks final Shrine circus performance here

Rainy weather caused cancellation of the Shrine circus here Monday evening, the last of six scheduled performances. The circus will open in Belleville at the Belle-Claire Fairgrounds Saturday and tickets purchased here will be honored at Belleville.

Russell J. Maxwell, administrator of Ainsel Temple, said the circus here attracted about 11,000 persons, including about 8,000 ticket purchasers.

The Saturday afternoon show was stopped for a short period by rain but was resumed after the shower. The evening show was unhampered by weather. One of three Sunday, only one was affected by weather. Two acts had to be canceled because of high winds endangering aerial acts.

Meetings this month and next month will be from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on and second and fourth Wednesdays.

At the request of the council's executive committee, the board is to provide a secretary for the meetings.

On the executive committee, and the organizations they represent, are Ed Edwards, chairman, Rotary Club; Don Kopp, vice-chairman, Principals Association; Janet Morlen, secretary, Student Council; Mrs. Helen Christich, Business & Professional Women's Club; and Homer Huber, Chamber of Commerce.

with Granite City printed on them, which are free, including the free tickets clowns gave to children during the parade, will not be honored at Belleville.

But, he said, all tickets purchased at the circus ticket office and others not specifying Granite City will be accepted.

Tough policy outlined for restricted driving

Michael J. Howlett, secretary of state, said today he will use his discretionary powers over "hardship" driving permits to enforce cooperation with the Implied Consent law.

Howlett spoke at the eighth annual Traffic Court Conference at Bradley University, Peoria. It was attended by traffic court judges, prosecutors and public defenders from throughout Illinois.

Under the Implied Consent law, any motorist lawfully arrested for drunken driving must take a breath analysis test. His consent to take the test is implied by his driving.

If he refuses to take the test his license is suspended by the secretary for three months on the first refusal, six months for any subsequent arrest and refusal.

To prevent undue hardship, the secretary has authority to issue a restricted driving permit so the suspended licensee can drive to his job or to a doctor's office.

Restricted driving permits also may be issued when a driver's license has been suspended or revoked for many other offenses, including drunken driving itself.

"The three-month license suspension for refusal to take the breath test is automatic unless the driver requests a court hearing," said Howlett.

"If the court finds suspension justified, the judge can recommend a hardship restricted driving permit, but the secretary of state can accept or deny the recommendation.

"I would urge a stern attitude by judges about recommending hardship permits in such cases."

"Our office normally follows the judge's recommendation. And we will take a stern approach on our own for drivers who take the automatic suspension without requesting the court hearing."

"An arrested driver who knows he would surely flunk the breath test is tempted to refuse it, if he thinks it would destroy the evidence of his drunken driving."

"He will take a three-month suspension for the refusal, with possibility of a hardship permit, rather than take the risk of outright revocation of his license if convicted in court of drunken driving."

"He could be convicted of drunken driving anyway, on evidence other than the breath test. But his refusal to cooperate in determining his degree of intoxication is reason enough for a tough attitude by the secretary of state."

"The breath test is a protection for drivers who may have had a drink but have not become intoxicated. A driver who refuses to take it when lawfully requested by a police officer should expect no friendly 'hardship' treatment from the secretary of state."

Contract for new roof on administration building

The Madison Board of Education Tuesday night awarded a contract for reroofing the administration building to Lake-side Roofing Co. of Granite City on a low bid of $13,752.

Other bids opened at the meeting were from Geisler Roofing Co. of Belleville and Quad-City Roofing Co. of Granite City.

Three bids for a walk-in freezer for the high school were referred to the building committee for study.

An $810 contract for a convention oven, awarded at the board's last meeting, was rescinded because of an error in determining the need for the oven.

Parc Equipment Co. of St. Louis had won contracts on both the $810 oven and a $625 oven. The $625 contract remains in effect.

John Palchett, acting superintendent, was authorized to purchase janitorial supplies for summer work.

The board agreed there was insufficient time to bid for the purchases without having to lay off several custodians until contracted materials arrived.

Palchett said he has mailed contracts on previously approved bids from Ford Equipment Co. of St. Louis for an automatic dishwashing unit at $4,287, and from numerous other companies for small school supplies, such as paper and pencils.

The board agreed to purchase an air conditioner for the second floor of the administration building. Purchase of two air conditioners was authorized by the board last year but only one was received at that time.

Mrs. Marguerite Conzole, director of the gifted program for the district, was hired for one or more summer months to coordinate preparation of an "A160 plan" which must be submitted to the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction by September. The plan calls for citizen involvement in guiding school district policies.

INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Debra Brown, 20, of 2230 Cleveland Blvd., a passenger in an auto driven by Gary L. Brown, same address, sustained minor injuries in an accident with an auto driven by Douglas Gene May, Edwardsville, at 11:05 p.m. Tuesday at 23rd Street and Madison Avenue. May was charged with a traffic signal violation.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID WASSON, who were united in marriage at the United Pentecostal Church, 2540 Pontoon Road. She is the former Miss Linda Hancock, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hancock, 2444 Bryan Ave.

Linda Hancock married in evening ceremony

Miss Linda Hancock, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hancock, 2444 Bryan Ave., and David Wasson, 1202 W. Pontoon Road, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wasson of Beaufort, Mo., exchanged wedding vows June 1 in an evening ceremony at the United Pentecostal Church, 2540 Pontoon Road.

The Rev. Thomas Gentry performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Music played during the service by the church organist included "The Wedding Song" and "We've Only Just Begun."

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Hancock chose a pure white Chantilly lace gown fashioned with a molded bodice, a high neckline and long tapered sleeves. Tiers of the bouffant skirt were edged with scalloped lace and scallops were repeated at the hemline. A full sweep detachable train cascading from a bow at the back was bordered in matching lace.

A jeweled crown of pearls and crystals secured a bouffant veil of bridal illusion and she carried a teardrop bouquet of carnations, centered with pink roses and baby breath.

Maid of honor, Miss Teresa Hancock, a sister of the bride, was gowned in peacock blue chiffon over tulle, designed in an Empire style.

Long full chiffon sleeves in an ivory shade were set into the fitted ivory chiffon bodice made with a stand-up collar. Beaded lace accented the collar and cuffs and created a design on the bodice.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Reba Gardner, another sister of the bride, Mrs. Sharon Watson, the bride's aunt, and Rita Ellis, a cousin of the bride, wore aqua chiffon dresses, identical in style to the honor attendant's gown.

Ginger Powell, the flower girl, wore a white chiffon frock. She was escorted by the ringbearer, David King.

The groom chose John Jones as his best man, John Perry Jr., and James Sureman were groomsmen. Timothy Gardner and Joseph Church seated the guests.

Mrs. Hancock chose for her daughter's wedding a full-length gown of pink polyester crepe made with long full sleeves of chiffon and a matching bolero, trimmed in pink braid. She wore white accessories.

A reception was given after the ceremony in the church basement. The rehearsal dinner was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The newly married couple will reside in Granite City following a wedding trip to Florida.

A graduate of Granite City High School, the bride is employed at Smith-Schiff Paper Co. She is a member of the YMCA Judo Club and belongs to the Girl Scout Association.

Her husband was graduated from Washington University and O'Fallon Technical School. He works as a draftsman at Duke Manufacturing Co., St. Louis.

Miss Kathy Justice and Mrs. Carol Converse served as candlelighters and appeared in candy pink chiffon gowns.

ROLLETTES CLUB MEETS AT CASEVILLE HOME

The Rollettes Club met Tuesday night in the home of Mrs. Carol Smith in Caseyville, Ill. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Helen Warfield, Mrs. Jeanette Wilson and Mrs. Connie Tinsley.

Mrs. Smith served a buffet luncheon to the prize winners and to Mesdames Joyce Walder, Diana Wilson, Betty Brooks, Debbie Bettorf, Edith Wolford, Sharon Jackson and a guest Mrs. Giney Riggley. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Wilson.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD HUCKLA, whose wedding took place at St. Stephens Catholic Church in Caseyville, Ill. The bride is the former Miss Virginia Louise Feldpausch, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Feldpausch of Caseyville.

Couple exchanges vows in afternoon ceremony

An out-of-town wedding of interest here was that of Miss Virginia Louise Feldpausch, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Feldpausch, 8 Athol Drive, Caseyville, and Donald Leigh Huckla, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Huckla, 1816 Edwardsville Road, Madison, taking place June 2 at St. Stephens Catholic Church in Caseyville.

The Rev. Conrad Motola, O.F.M., performed the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m. before an altar decorated with arrangements of white spring flowers.

Jim Havranek presided at the organ as Eleanor Tutka sang "Ave Maria." "On This Day," "Love One Another" and "We've Only Just Begun."

For her wedding, the bride selected a full-length gown of white bridal satin fashioned with an Empire bodice of Chantilly lace, featuring a high neckline and long full sleeves.

A bridal cap of matching lace held in place her fingertip veil of bridal illusion, edged with a wide band of lace. Her bouquet was a cascade of white carnations, miniature pink carnations and similar.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Kathy Jung, wore a long dress of floral printed pink polyester sleeves. A satin belt, accentuating the round neckline and edged the short dropped sleeves. A satin belt, accentuating the round neckline, terminated at the back in a bow with streamers extending to the hem.

Mrs. Mary Gruber and Miss Barbara Feldpausch, bridesmaids, chose identically designed dresses in a mint green. Each held a nosegay of white carnations and purple statice, festooned with long white streamers.

Richard Scott served as best man, Ron Musielak and Mark Thomas were groomsmen and Scott Smith was the usher.

Mrs. Feldpausch, mother of the bride chose a mint green polyester dress with a lace coat, complemented with matching accessories.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Huckla, was attired in a pink polyester dress and pink accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

Guests were received at the Polish Hall in Madison after the service.

The former Miss Feldpausch is a graduate of Northeast Missouri State University and is completing post-graduate work at the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo., where the couple will reside.

Mrs. Huckla also was graduated from Northeast Missouri State University and is completing post-graduate work at the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo., where the couple will reside.

Public backing being sought for bikeway proposal

An appeal for public support of state bikeway legislation was issued yesterday by the Great River Riders Club at Granite City.

The group's comments follow:
"SB 53, sponsored by Sam Vadalabert, has passed the Senate. This action is due to the support that the cyclists of various riding clubs and interested persons in the area and state have shown."

"Many of us made trips to Springfield and attended the hearings that went on previous to the passage of the bikeway bill. Many of us testified and rode our bikes around the Capitol in Springfield to show the legislators that we were serious in our need for safe bikeways."

"Sen. Vadalabert's SB 1167, appropriating money from the general fund in dollar amount approximately equal to the number of bicycles in Illinois, to start an Illinois bikeway program, will be heard before the Senate Appropriations Committee next week."

"We are urging you to contact the members of the Senate Appropriations Committee recommending its passage."

"The members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, to write to are Sen. Terrell, Clarke, Sen. Charles E. Chew Jr., Sen. John A. Davidson, Sen. Terry L. Bruce, Sen. James H. Donawald, Sen. Daniel Dougherty, Sen. Karl Berning, Sen. Harber H. Hall, Sen. Thomas C. Hayes, Sen. Jack Knueper, Sen. Howard Mohr, Sen. Cecil A. Partee and Sen. Davis J. Regner."

"Send each letter to the foregoing senators at the State Capitol Building, Springfield, Ill. 62704, immediately upon receipt of this message."

"Letters to any or all of the above senators would be helpful and we urge parents of young bike enthusiasts and riders of all ages to participate in this great effort to bring safe bikeways to Illinois for us and for the future riders of the great state."

"We urge that every parent who reads this message help a young rider compose a letter to the above senators and urge them to appropriate the money that Illinois so desperately needs for bikeways."

"Help is needed now to assure that bikeways in Illinois become a reality."

State Assembly education financing discussion eyed as GC school negotiations enter recess

Factors in the recessing of Granite City school working agreement negotiations until Aug. 1 were outpacing for us to make any day night's Board of Education meeting.

Those presenting statements were Board President Donald Stucke, Supt. B. J. Davis and Harold Hillmer, administrative assistant for employee relations.

Supt. Davis told the board, "I am afraid I must advise you that our negotiations with Local 743, American Federation of Teachers, did not attain a working agreement and both parties mutually agreed May 24 to suspend negotiations until Aug. 1.

"As you may recall, when we settled the strike in 1969, both parties mutually agreed to use every effort to settle future working agreements before the end of the school year.

"We were successful in 1971 and did reach agreement before school was out.

"In my opinion, both parties made valid effort this year to solve the problems before the end of school, and substantial progress had been made before May 1.

"However, we received the dreadful news on May 1 that our assessed valuation would decrease by more than $100 million from last year's actual figure and more than $13 million from our projections for this present tax year.

"This, coupled with many other unknowns, left both sides in the dark.

both parties had no alternative but to agree as they did, hoping that some or all of the unknowns will be solved in June or July.

"Those of you who are on the board must be thinking back like I have been to 1969 when we found ourselves in a similar situation.

"It would be easy to become pessimistic, but in the four years since then I think both sides have gained a greater maturity, sophistication and knowledge about our negotiations. We have developed an attitude of mutual trust, in my opinion.

"While I am disappointed, I am not discouraged. I am optimistic that a working agreement will be agreed on within the first week of August so that you, the pupils, the parents, the teachers and the community will have no uncertainty that school will start on Wednesday, Sept. 5, 1973," the superintendent concluded.

Hillmer's comments were as follows:

"Mr. Davis is my superior and I am not certain that I have the right to disagree publicly with him; but I must state to you, as I have stated to him, that I am not quite as optimistic as he is.

"There is no doubt that there are a tremendous number of financial unknowns that exist tonight, but both parties have previously been confronted with similar unknowns at this time of year in previous negotiations.

"In the past, at least in 1971, they were able to evolve and agree upon formula for solving those unknowns.

"In addition, by having negotiations carry over to August, the Board of Education is at a tactical disadvantage because it has an over-riding duty to see that school opens on time, and can be subjected to multiple pressures at the bargaining table and from the community.

"Very frankly, I thought we made the other side an offer they could not turn down—an offer which would have increased the pay of every teacher at least $225 per year and would have increased the pay of the average teacher at least $535 per year.

"In addition to pay increases, we had tentatively agreed on rather substantial increases in fringe benefits before we received the distressing news of the impending decrease in our revenue.

"At that point, the parties were $715 per teacher apart.

"There was a willingness among our team, and especially by me, to attempt to find common ground and reduce the differences; but the impact of the loss of revenue made it impossible for us to make any greater offer.

"There are many bills pending in the General Assembly which might change our expected revenue for next year. The General Assembly, which must adjourn by June 30, must act upon these bills. "Each of us at this table understands and comprehends the desire of every wage earner to see his wages increase every year. But this Board of Education has charged its committee with the additional important obligation of attempting to protect the taxpayers of this school district who have been subjected in the last 10 years to escalation of taxes almost as bad as the escalation of food prices.

"Our teachers are well paid. We want to continue to see that they are well paid; and we have attempted to do so.

"We have just received a report from the Illinois Association of School Boards about salary settlements made prior to May 10 throughout the state for next year.

"While the cash raise we have proposed may not be as large as some of those in this report, I can state to you unequivocally that our salary schedule is now and would be better than any reported in that report.

"I am disappointed, I am discouraged, and I have the human feeling that I wish this year was over and wrapped up in a package.

"But I speak for the entire team when I say to you that, to settle this matter reasonably and in early August, we shall make every effort to settle this matter the first week in August."

President Stucke said, "I am disappointed but I am not pessimistic.

"I believe that the people on the other side of the table have just as great a desire as we do to settle this matter reasonably and in early August.

"Everybody in this town knows from our experience in 1969 that a strike is bad for both parties and is a severe penalty upon the pupils, to whom both parties have an over-riding obligation since education of children is our product."

Resurfacing of 10.55 miles on Interstate 55 between Interstate 270 and Illinois 40; also includes furnishing and erecting traffic signs.

Paving of 1.65 miles on Interstate 55 at four structures from three miles northeast of Hamel to three miles southeast of Edwardsville.

Placing of 0.29-mile of concrete base course, concrete surface course, stabilized base course, traffic signals and highway lighting at the intersection of Collinsville Road with Black Lane-Fairmont Avenue.

Building up grade and concrete surface on Interstate 70 at two locations between East St. Louis and Collinsville.

Pavement of 0.4 mile and traffic signals at the intersection of Route 111 at Madison Street in Hartford.

Reconstruction of the Interstate 55 and Illinois 140 interchange three miles east of Edwardsville.

Placing of 0.49 mile of base course and resurfacing on Illinois 140 and 0.90 mile of resurfacing on Interstate 55 and four interchange ramps at the interchange of Interstate 55 with Illinois 140 in Hamel.

Remove the superstructure and replace with deck beams for the structure carrying Illinois 140 over Cahokia Creek on widened abutments, piers and one new center pier five miles west of Hamel.

Song by GC composer issued in new record

A recording of a new song composed by Mrs. Guyia Stuart, 2529 Center St., has been released on a Top Side label and currently is available.

It is entitled "Scarlet Roses" and is sung by Hal Kapper, St. Louis country and western singer. It is on a 45 rpm record.

Mrs. Stuart composed the music and collaborated with her sister, Mrs. Helen Bridgman of Denver, Colo., who wrote the lyrics.

Mrs. Stuart, who wrote the official song for Granite City's All America City celebration in the mid 1950s, has been composing for 25 years and has about 150 songs to her credit.

Road paving contract awarded for county

Contracts totaling more than $46.4 million for road improvement projects throughout the state, including one in Madison County, have been awarded to successful low bidders, the Illinois Department of Transportation announced.

Bituminous Fuel & Oil Co. and Thacker Construction Co. of Collinsville were awarded a contract for 1.13 miles of pavement on Routes 140 and 111 from Franklin Avenue to New Bethalto Road in Cottage Hills, including furnishing and installing traffic control signals, on a low bid of $1,423,312.

Head Start orientation

Orientation day for the Head Start program in the Madison and Venice areas will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Lee Park Recreation Center in Venice. The program will be concluded before 3 p.m., Robert N. Vickers, Venice assistant school superintendent, said. The tentative day to begin classes is June 11.

Issue park ID cards

Granite City Park District residents may obtain identification cards between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. today at the Wilson Park ice rink. The cards, costing 60 cents per person, permit purchase of swimming permits at reduced rates. Proof of residency in the park district is required.

Larry Mangi finishes seminar on repairs

Larry A. Mangi of Triangle Typewriter & Supply Co., 1814 State St., has successfully completed the Champion Service Seminar conducted by Victor Comptometer Corporation, Business Machines Division, St. Louis.

Mangi said that his participation in the intensive training was another step in his firm's program of providing this area with modern service and maintenance methods for Victor's Champion line of adding machines, calculators and cash registers.

Discover Illinois, save fuel on vacation

The nation-wide fuel shortage can cause problems for travelers this summer, but there is a simple solution for Illinois residents.

Robert Sullivan, chief of the Illinois Division of Tourism, recommends that this year would be the ideal time for families to "Discover All of Illinois."

"Illinois is a treat for the whole family," Sullivan said. "We have something for everyone—camping, hiking, fishing, boating, historic areas and plenty of scenic beauty."

By traveling close to home, Sullivan added, Illinois residents can see parts of the state they haven't visited before, tour areas that helped form our state and nation and at the same time not worry about the fuel shortage they might face on a cross-country trip.

Rich in history, Illinois ranks as 13th in the nation for historical significance and areas to visit. This in itself is significant, Sullivan said, when one considers the 13 original colonies that founded our nation.

Some of the historical areas that residents should consider visiting include: The Lincoln Shrine in Springfield and New Salem; Galena, where Ulysses S. Grant prepared for the presidency; Bishop Hill Swedish Colony; Dickson Mounds Museum near Lewistown; Alton, where there was a prisoner of war camp during the Civil War; Fort de Chartres near Prairie Du Rocher, the last fortification to lower the French Flag in the Midwest; Vandalia, site of the first statehouse; and Cairo with its magnificently restored mansions.

Beauty and history are combined in the more than 70 state parks in Illinois and many of recreational activities such as boating, swimming, hiking, picnicking and fishing.

Beauty is around every corner, from the rugged hills in northern Illinois to the beautiful and historic Spoon River Valley scenic drive to the unusual rock formation and serenity in the Shawnee National Forest in the 17 southern counties of the state.

Crab Orchard Lake has long been a haven for water-oriented recreationists, and now with Rend Lake, Carlyle Lake and Shelbyville Lake there is little reason to pull your camper or boat to a neighboring state.

Chicago, of course, is noted for its fine restaurants, museums, sports and cultural positions. For family fun and entertainment, it's hard to beat the largest city in Illinois.

And for a glimpse back into history, 1873 is the tricentennial of the Joliet and Marquette exploration of the Mississippi and Illinois rivers. Seven Illinois men, dressed in authentic costumes, will retrace the original route and many communities along the way.

If you're a festival goer, Illinois is a mecca. During the summer and fall there aren't many weekends that go by without a festival going on somewhere in the state.

The Division of Tourism has prepared a pamphlet, "20

Research grants to remain stable, costs to increase

Rising costs and the effect of inflation will cut sharply into the actual "purchasing power" of research grants in the foreseeable future, according to Carl D. Douglas, director of the Division of Research Grants of the National Institutes of Health. No increase in the overall amount of research funding is anticipated.

Douglas was one of the principal speakers at a symposium on research opportunities in education and the sciences at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Douglas indicated moves are being made to decentralize national research services "in an effort to bring the activities closer to the people," but he acknowledged that maintaining existing levels of funding will not compensate for inflation and rising costs.

Other speakers at the symposium included Holt Ashley, Washington, D. C., director of the Office of Exploratory Research and Problem Assessment of the National Science Foundation, who discussed research efforts in the social sciences; Sally Pancrazio, Chicago, director of the Research Statistics Section of the Illinois Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, who reported on research in Illinois; Anthony A. Rizzo, Washington, D. C., geriatric diseases program chief of the National Institute of Dental Research of the National Institutes of Health, who discussed research trends and objectives of NIDR; and William E. Wright, Washington, D. C., director of the Division of Mathematical and Physical Sciences of the National Science Foundation, who indicated the latest information on research opportunities in mathematics and physical sciences.

Summarizing the information released at the symposium, Douglas said a reallocation of available research funds can be anticipated, with increased funding for heart and cancer research, but he cautioned that overall funding probably will remain at about the same level.

The speakers were united in their advice that the best way to obtain more research grants is to "submit better proposals and applications."

Douglas revealed that of all new grants awarded, about 60% go to people who have not had a grant previously, indicating the competitive nature of the research grant field.

"I can assure you of one thing," Douglas said, "We will find some way to support new research, and your best hope is to submit a good application."

Comments on research at SIUE were made by Howard S. Dye, dean of the Graduate School. The symposium was welcomed by Dr. John S. Rendleman, president of SIUE, who pointed out that extramural research is "indispensable" to the future growth and advancement of the university.

Water taken by plants drops in past decade

As a result of conservation practices, the amount of water withdrawn by industries in Illinois has decreased during the past decade, despite increases in productivity.

This trend was indicated in a study of water use just published by the Illinois State Water Survey, according to William C. Ackermann, survey chief. This report is titled "Withdrawal of Water by Industry in Illinois, 1970-1971," and was written by Donald H. Schnepper, James C. Neill and Ralph L. Evans.

The new report gives information on quantities, sources and distribution of water withdrawals. Information was obtained from questionnaire replies by more than 3,000 companies, including steam electric power plants.

During 1970 - 71, industries withdrew an average of 11.02 billion gallons of water a day. Most of this more than 10.70 billion gallons a day, was taken from surface water sources, mainly large rivers and Lake Michigan. However, another 311 million gallon a day was withdrawn from groundwater sources.

Ralph L. Evans, head of the survey's water quality section in Peoria which made the study, notes that, unfortunately, differences in data collections on industrial water over the years make direct comparisons difficult.

"However, the conservation trend seems clear from our surface water figures which show a peak of 11.74 billion gallons a day in 1960, which dropped to 10.68 by 1965, and apparently have stabilized since that time," he said.

The new study shows that by far the largest withdrawal, 80% of the total, was by steam electric power plants, and the second largest withdrawal was by the primary metals industry. Next in rank, but with much smaller totals, were chemical products and food-beverage industries.

Evans points out that industries may "use" through recycling, quite a bit more water than they "withdraw" from the source. Only a very small percentage of industrial water is lost, or "consumed," as by evaporation or incorporation in products.

Counting error shows need for increased election instructions

Granite City Park District poll judges' massive error in their vote tabulation April 17—disclosed by a ballot recount May 30—is shocking. With only 1,619 ballots cast in the district, and 743 at Park Precinct Two, the polling place officers erred by 58 votes at that precinct and by at least 63 votes throughout the park district.

This was not only a substantial miscount—considering the size of the turnout and the simplicity of the ballot—but it also tipped the scales to show an apparent seven-vote victory of an incumbent park commissioner. Instead, following the recount, Robert Patrick was a clear winner for a six-year board term.

If he had not challenged the result, voters' actual preference never would have been known with certainty, the loser would have continued in office and the man now to be seated, Mr. Patrick, would have been denied the office.

Including the Quad-Cities and the span of several decades, there have been more than a few election law violations. At one point, ignoring of responsible procedures in the Granite City school system prompted special instruction for all its election officials.

The 1973 park election provides a fresh reminder that accurate implementation of voters' wishes, so essential in a democracy, is far from automatic.

Perhaps all governmental bodies here will wish to review their present methods of assuring adherence to proper election rules, and improve those methods where changes are indicated.

Ending of Technical Center funds ignores its accomplishments

Termination of the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center would be tragic, in view of its obvious success in helping adults to improve their job skills and to obtain high school diplomas and certificates. Since its inception, the center has helped more than 1,000 adults to obtain high school diplomas and certificates. Since its inception, the center has helped more than 1,000 adults to obtain high school diplomas and certificates.

These are gains that must not be abandoned. As Rankin says, apparent failure to communicate the success story to top officials is jeopardizing the center's future and making federal and state constitutions, laws and policies regarding education "an empty bit of rhetoric."

It may be the harmful "communication gap" he cites can be ended if Quad-Cityans and others make their views known clearly and quickly to state and federal authorities.

Some acronyms are more apt than others. One of our favorites was referred to in our report Monday on the annual disaster exercises held at St. Elizabeth Hospital and other member hospitals of the Area Coordinated Hospital Emergency Service (ACHES). If that group ever disbanded, maybe they'll be able to think of one that spells out PAINS.

PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE Nervous GOP looks to 1974

By MICHAEL O'CONNOR
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — The Watergate controversy has created political problems which are muddled by many observers but essentially quite clear to a small group of men in Washington.

They are the senators who must run for reelection next year.

On one side are eight Republicans, all strong supporters of President Nixon, who essentially back his policies but are fearful that any taint of Watergate will drag them down in contests of 1974.

Eight other senators, all Democrats, would normally be considered politically vulnerable in the off-year elections. Personally controversial, they all may be beneficiaries of the tangled issues revolving around Watergate.

The 1974 elections will be the first direct public opinion poll on how the Senate electorate views the first half of President Nixon's second term. Political control of Congress is one of the President's cherished goals.

He now faces a Democratic Senate with a 56-40-42-seat majority. Two senators are separately classified, James Buckley of New York as a conservative and Harry Byrd of Virginia as an independent.

In the 1974 elections, 19 Democratic and 15 Republican seats will be in contention. It takes a simple majority of partisan congressmen to achieve control and dictate the course of legislation in either House.

For many reasons, the Republican senators are greatly concerned about how the electorate will respond to Watergate at the polling place.

Key Republicans in the drama are Marlow Cook of Kentucky, Bob Dole of Kansas, Peter Dominick of Colorado, Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Edward Gurney of Florida, Jacob Javits of New York, Charles Mathias of Maryland and William Saxton of Ohio.

They are incumbents who anticipate strong challenges next year, Watergate notwithstanding. They also are among the earliest and strongest GOP critics of White House policies in handling Watergate inquiries.

Also up for challenge next year are Democrats Birch Bayh of Indiana, Frank Church of Idaho, Alan Cranston of California, Thomas Eagleton of Missouri, Mike Gravel of Alaska, George McGovern of South Dakota, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin and Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

Political speculation now centers in some quarters on whether these men's questioned electability six months ago has been altered by the Watergate case.

If Watergate is the dominating issue that some polls claim it to be, the Republicans could stand to lose an undetermined number of seats they expected to hold by strength of incumbency while losing totally in areas of challenge to marginal Democratic seats.

The Senate elects one two-thirds its membership every two years. Considering the number of Republican senators up for reelection and with the unknown factor of public attitude on Watergate, many Republicans are saying the 1974 elections could produce a landslide sweep for Democrats on the Senate side.

Any significant shift of seats, they contend, would put philosophical control of the Senate out of reach for Mr. Nixon during the remainder of his term and place the party in a disadvantageous position when it must choose a new presidential nominee in 1976.

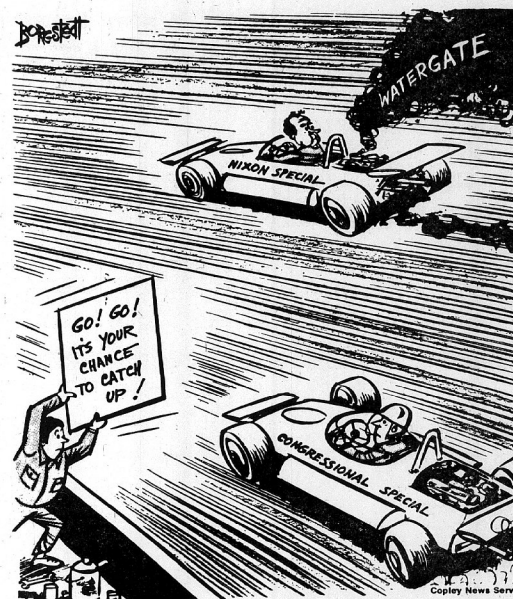

The Watergate incident, whatever its spillout, is now proving to be the potential telling element in the individual Senate races.

Although the opposition has not surfaced as yet, it appears particularly to affect such Republicans as Cook, Dole, Dominick and Gurney. All are Nixon loyalists on most issues but, again, among the first to question conduct of the Watergate inquiry.

Goldwater, Javits and Saxton are supporters of the President but reaching the point in long political careers where single controversies could upset their chances in close elections.

All other members of the Senate up for reelection next year are considered closely tied to local constituencies and with little partisan opposition to upset their reelection plans.

Bilateral agreements will be sought on agriculture, oceanography, scientific and cultural exchanges.

POLICE DESERVE 100 PERCENT BACKING BY CITIZENS

To the Editor: It makes me sort of sick to read the public basting that your local police are getting in some media over the unfortunate shooting of a 19-year-old boy at 2:30 a.m. May 22.

Instead of criticism, I think citizens should be proud that the police responded and handled the situation and apprehended the fleeing persons responsible. Granted, it was a sad occurrence. But if the boy had been at home where he should have been at that hour, he would not have been shot.

Under the tension that an officer is placed under in such a situation and considering how many officers have been shot while in similar circumstances in recent years, I would not question the word of a man doing his duty.

I read twice each week in the Press-Record of the numerous small crimes of theft, burglary and minor crime which occur in the Tri-Cities.

We sure wouldn't solve many of them by not standing solidly behind local police. I say people should give them a helping hand instead of criticism, or in a few years we will have a situation like East St. Louis faces—major crimes up over 22 percent there in the last year.

I live in a rural area and am very proud to say that I have had wonderful cooperation from the sheriff's department, the state police and the local Terminal Railroad special agents wherever I needed them.

The FORUM

We generally have a road block on Bend Road in two to five minutes after a call to the local police radio dispatcher. I sure makes you rest easier to know you have this kind of back-up when you need it.

Again, I say let's give them a good word and back them 100 percent rather than criticism and a hard word for doing the job they were hired for.

A Russian is coming to town

By RAY McHUGH
Chief, Washington Bureau
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — The swift-running currents of world politics have overtaken even the Watergate affair.

Russia's Leonid Brezhnev is coming to Washington June 18.

Nothing could drag serious men more violently away from Washington's scandalous scandal back to cautious appraisal of Moscow's velvet fist diplomacy.

Watergate has unleashed a torrent of examination and recrimination on the powers and procedures of the American presidency, but these must now be put aside. The two most powerful men in the world are about to meet at the White House and their decisions will affect economic, trade and military-diplomacy patterns for a decade or more.

Even Dr. Henry Kissinger's laconic review of the Nixon-Brezhnev agenda only emphasizes the importance of "Priorities" are to be set for second round of the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT) now under way in Vienna.

Bilateral agreements will be sought on agriculture, oceanography, scientific and cultural exchanges.

U.S.-Soviet trade agreements will be discussed, with the expectation that Congress will grant the Russians "most favored nation" tariff concessions.

Preliminary agreements will be sought concerning the European security conference which has been trying to get under way at Helsinki, Finland.

Discussions will be held on balanced U.S.-Soviet troop reductions in Europe.

"Miscellaneous" issues like Indochina and the Middle East will be explored.

The outline underscores Kissinger's prediction that it will be "overwhelmingly a working summit." The topics include virtually every point of contention that has occupied the two superpowers since the end of World War II.

Many of them helped spur the concentration of power in the American presidency over the last 30 years — an issue that lies at the heart of the Watergate affair.

Kissinger made no mention of the end of World War II. Many of them helped spur the concentration of power in the American presidency over the last 30 years — an issue that lies at the heart of the Watergate affair.

Could Superman invert a pyramid?

An age-old news writing principle is the "inverted pyramid." It calls for the most important point to be presented first, followed by the second most vital bit of information, followed by the third, and continuing in descending order.

The theory is that, if an article must be trimmed to fit, the last paragraph would be the first to go, with the next-to-last paragraph deleted next, and continuing in ascending order. An upside-down pyramid illustrates the procedure, with the finest point at the bottom.

Such deletions occur less frequently than might be assumed. But the prospect presents amusing possibilities in instances where a feature-type news lead is utilized.

Among the more fascinating leads seen in the past few days is one from our Springfield bureau:

"Members of the Illinois National Guard will soon begin measuring the seriousness of a problem most people don't even know they have—eutrophication."

If only the initial sentence of such an article were to be published, it might leave readers wondering what sort of calamity or plague was suddenly endangering them.

Actually, eutrophication is the process by which excess chemical nutrients, particularly phosphates, overstimulate aquatic plant growth. Uncontrolled, it affects water quality.

A survey on the subject is planned at 31 Illinois lakes, including two in Madison County: Horseshoe Lake and Highland's Silver Lake.

Another report began: "Who can join? Anyone who catches fireflies."

It turned out to be related to the 12th annual collection of fireflies by the Sigma Firefly Scientists Club, scheduled to begin soon. And it's not merely a source. Fireflies are a valuable source of rare chemicals known to researchers chemists and as the substrate, "Luciferin," and the enzyme, "Luciferase," whoever named them was devilishly clever.

These chemicals are used in medical research for diagnostic purposes, in the search for possible causes of human ailments, including cancer.

And, so the article relates, these chemicals also are being used to detect the presence of life on other planets.

Which brings up another favorite news lead:

"Flash Gordon's light-ray gun zaps the Venusians before they grab the secret rocket plans. Superman's x-ray vision uncovers the kryptonite hidden in Luther's wooden leg."

Believe it or not, this was the first statement in the usually conservative "Engineering Outlook" in its May 1973 edition, received from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

After the references to Flash Gordon and Superman, it added: "And Professors Mitra, Ransom and Itoh try the light fantastic with lasers, light and holograms at the University of Illinois."

The conclusion is given a few paragraphs later—and it's a good thing it did not have to be omitted to fit the available space:

"The three professors, a coherent group in coherent optics, are diligently turning science fiction into science fact. They all need now is H. G. Wells' time machine to find out what effects their versions of Flash Gordon's laser and Superman's x-ray vision will have on the world."

LET'S TALK Leisure can be useful

By REV. W. LEE
TRUMAN
Copley News Service

I do not know the origin of the widespread fear of enjoying the pleasures of complete leisure.

It may have its roots in childhood, when a parent once admonished a child as lazy whenever it relaxed. It could come from hearing too many gossips saying harsh things about people they have observed who are freeloading.

It could also spring from that medieval animism that some people have that keeps them pushing every minute of the day, even when they are resting. My father-in-law, the Rev. Rex Dixon, tells of working for a farmer who told him that while he was resting from pitching hay he could jump over the fence and stack the wood.

One thing I am convinced of is that constructive leisure is a valuable but almost lost art. It is not something you turn to when you are exhausted and must get a rest to avoid a collapse. It is something you approach with joy and expectation as an important and essential part of the rhythm of effective living. To feel guilty about it is to rob it of its chance to work its particular brand of miracle.

In 1891 at a banquet honoring his 70th birthday, Helmholtz, the German physicist, tested the importance of the role of leisure in his life. He said the research he did which led to his significant discoveries were important.

He carried, harassed society we could well make a major effort to find the modern equivalent to Helmholtz' "slow down" of wood on a sunny day," and James Watt's walk on a fine Sabbath afternoon and tap this for our living today.

25 Years Ago Capricious windstorm in Madison

TAPPAN

A welcome home banner decorated the house and a bottle of iced champagne was waiting inside to greet Seaman Neil Gordon when he arrived home this week after completing close to four years active duty with the U. S. Navy.

The sailor was discharged Monday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick A. Podoba, 1862 Second St., Madison.

Seaman Gordon, 23, enlisted in the Navy in August 1969. He has served primarily on board the USS Davis, a destroyer, since the vessel was commissioned in October 1970.

He is a 1967 graduate of Madison High School and attended McKendree College at Lebanon for one year prior to working about a year at Dow Chemical Co.

During his tour of duty, the serviceman's ship patrolled North Vietnam coastal waters, including taking part in the mining operation of the North Vietnam harbor facilities.

The vessel and its crew also visited Manila, Hong Kong, Japan and Singapore. Last December, Gordon's ship cruised and made port calls in India, Africa and South America.

Earlier in his service career Seaman Gordon was on duty in the North Atlantic and paid visits to England, Scotland, Switzerland and other European countries, and Nova Scotia in Canada.

Mrs. Podoba said the champagne was purchased when her son left for the service and has remained untouched, waiting to be opened upon his discharge.

The serviceman is planning to enroll at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville to start the fall semester, his mother said.

Most dental students live in south Illinois

Most of the students in the 1973 first year class of the School of Dental Medicine of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will be from the southwestern and central parts of the state, according to Margaret Herrmann, registrar. Included are Robert R. Dolan, 700 E. Chain of Rocks Road.

The new class of 40 students, second for the SIUE dental school, will begin its three-year course of study in September. Students attend 45 weeks per year, enabling them to complete the requirements for their professional degree in three years instead of the traditional four.

One of the aims of the SIUE dental school is to alleviate the shortage of dentists in many parts of the state, according to Dr. Frank Sobkowski, dental school dean. As the first dental school in Illinois outside Cook County, SIUE is accepting a substantial percentage of students from the central and southern parts of the state and encouraging them to return to downstate Illinois to practice after graduation.

Eight members of the new class announced this week are residents of Belleville: four are natives of Edwardsville or are living in Edwardsville at the present time. Several others reside in the Madison-St. Clair county area, and two of the new students call Springfield their hometown.

Many of the students, in their letters of application, indicate their desire to establish practices in the Southern Illinois area. Ronald L. Cornu, Edwardsville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marchand L. Cornu of Springfield, expresses it this way: "I like the Southern Illinois area. My plans aren't definite at this time, but I feel a practice in the field of general dentistry somewhere in this area is most likely."

A new bachelor's degree program in law enforcement involving the cooperation of McKendree College in Lebanon with Belleville Area College is being announced by Dr. Emel Owen, vice-president for academic affairs at McKendree.

The program will allow students who receive associate degrees from BAC in law enforcement to continue their work for a full bachelor's degree with out loss of credit, Dr. Owen said. The agreement between the schools also paves the way for similar approaches for students of other junior colleges, Dr. Owen said.

Students enrolled in the program may select one of the standard majors in the college catalog, or with the assistance of a faculty committee design their own majors under McKendree's individualized major program.

The program includes a specified series of courses in law enforcement on the junior college level, and students should enroll in the degree program when they begin their junior college work. However, students with associate degrees in law enforcement will have met most if not all of the requirements, and it is possible for some adjustment in the last two years at McKendree so students can take some courses at BAC to complete the requirements, Dr. Owen said.

The McKendree College studies will include a unit (four semester hours) in fine arts, a unit in history or political science, a unit in philosophy or religion, two units in workshops in the administration of justice, and eight to nine units in a major.

The students could, for instance, major in business and economics with a concentration in accounting to prepare for a career as a federal agent, or might specialize in administration, social science or political science to aim toward specialized police work.

Those with associate degrees from other junior colleges should have their credits evaluated by Mrs. JoAnn Montague, registrar, Dr. Owen said.

Mrs. Adkerson nominated as Counselor of Year

Mrs. Sonya Adkerson, counselor at Granite City High School, has been nominated for the Counselor-of-the-Year Award which will be presented at the Illinois Guidance and Personnel Association state convention in October.

Because of her many activities and contributions to guidance, Mrs. Adkerson was nominated by area colleagues. She is the current president of the Lewis-Clark Chapter, IGPA. As such she has made several innovations—a chapter newsletter, cosponsoring programs with other area guidance organizations and recruiting nationally recognized speakers for programs.

She is editor of The Trek, the newsletter. Last month she was on the program at the regional convention of the American Personnel and Guidance Association, serving as chairwoman, recorder, reporter and hostess of a reception.

An article which she co-authored with Terry Salem, "Orientation Follow-Up," was published in the fall issue of the IGPA, a state journal. And her poem, "Lines Written at the Death of a Student," was published in the May issue of The School Counselor, a national publication.

She is a member of the St. Louis PGA Speaker's Bureau, volunteering her services to organizations desiring a program about guidance, counseling and communication.

In the nine years Mrs. Adkerson has been employed in Granite City, she has served the school district in many capacities: speech and English teacher; assistant head of Speech Department; counselor; member of Tri-Cities Educational Consulting Network; summer school committee, social committee, faculty play, summer curriculum workshop; guest speaker at local PTA meetings, and secretary and building representative of the Granite City Federation of Teachers.

Accepted by honorary
Kenneth Klesh, 97 Riviera Drive, is one of 194 members to be initiated into Phi Eta Sigma, academic honorary for freshmen men, at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. A grade point average of 4.5 is a requirement.

SIUE awarded $21,700 teachers' center grant

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been awarded $21,700 from the National Science Foundation for the continuing support of a teachers' center project which is receiving national acclaim.

The project, which is entitled "Teachers' Centers in Mathematics Education," is under the direction of Thomas C. O'Brien, associate professor of elementary education. The grant, announced this week, will continue the activity through Aug. 31, 1974.

Using an initial NSF grant of $18,700, teachers' centers were established by SIUE last year in St. Louis County and Belleville. Teachers from the communities meet regularly to exchange ideas, conduct research, hear lectures by national leaders in mathematics education, and develop new programs for their own classrooms.

Some youths fail to register for military draft

Dean S. Sweet, director of Selective Service for Illinois, is deeply concerned over "the many violations of the Military Selective Service Act of 1917." In particular, he is concerned with those men who are, in increasing numbers, failing to register with the Selective Service System.

The Military Selective Service Act requires that men, upon attaining the age of 18 years, register on the anniversary of their date of birth or within the period of 60 days commencing 30 days before their 18th birthday. Those who register late may be reported to the United States attorney for possible prosecution.

Sweet further stated that he believes that the majority of the violations have occurred due to the misunderstandings that have arisen since the end of informal, grassroots operations. They're simply groups of teachers trying to better teach children.

Weekly three-hour sessions are held at the centers, with teachers and administrators in public and private schools participating, at no cost.

"Participants commit themselves for a 12-week session," O'Brien said. "At the end of 12 weeks, they may sign on for another session or drop out. Those enrolling are encouraged to participate in clusters—two or three from a school—so the effectiveness of their work may be greater."

O'Brien said the centers do not offer courses in the traditional sense. "Rather, I'd call it immersion in alternative seeking for math education," he said.

According to W. Deane Wiley, dean of the SIUE Education Division, "The centers perhaps are the first ones in the country and certainly the first ones in this area."

of the war in Vietnam and the many announcements that no further induction calls would be issued.

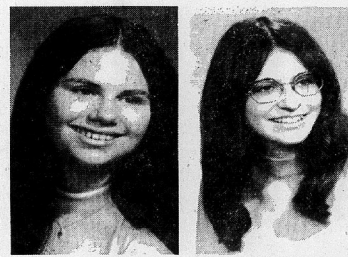

"The elimination of induction calls has no way affected a young man's responsibility to register with the Selective Service System," he said, and encouraged all men to register on time to avoid future legal problems.

Registration may be accomplished at the Selective Service Local Board Office, Post Office and Federal Bldg., 132 North Kansas St., Edwardsville, Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Registration may also be accomplished by uncompensated registrars whose names and addresses are as follows:

Mrs. Fern Hahn—Granite City High School.
Mrs. Agnes Feldworth or Mrs. Edna Mae McLinn, Madison High School.
Mrs. Elizabeth J. Brawley, Venice High School.

Shooting of Mormon leaders black mark in state history

The assassination of the Mormon leaders Joseph and Hyrum Smith in 1844 was the blackest mark ever put on the record of any state in Illinois history.

But the month did have its triumphs: Abraham Lincoln delivered his famous "House Divided" speech June 16, 1858, and June has recorded other events of major importance.

The Mormons came to Illinois in the winter and spring of 1839 and purchased the swampy site of a town called Commerce at a big bend in the Mississippi River. They changed the name to Nauvoo, drained the swamp, and within a few years built a city of 20,000—the largest in the state (the 1840 population of Chicago was 4,470).

Nauvoo had sawmills, gristmills, newspapers, breweries, stores and other businesses. Its more prosperous citizens lived in brick homes while most of the rest of the state was still housed in log cabins.

But there was a growing anti-Mormon sentiment that threatened to develop into mob action. The anti-Mormons published a newspaper attacking the church leaders and Joseph Smith ordered the newspaper shop destroyed. (One of the three known copies of this paper, the Nauvoo Expositor, is now in the Illinois State Historical Library, Springfield.)

Charged with wrecking the newspaper shop, the Smith brothers surrendered to Gov. Thomas Ford after receiving the governor's assurances of their safety. They were confined in the little two-story limestone jail in Carthage, the Hancock County seat, under guard of an Illinois militia unit, the Carthage Greys.

On June 27, while the governor was on an inspection trip to Nauvoo, members of another militia unit made up a mob, stormed the jail (with the cooperation of the Greys), and killed the Smith brothers.

Hyrum Smith died in the first round of firing. Joseph was shot at the second floor window and fell to the ground where he was shot several more times. A visitor, John Taylor, was severely wounded but recovered. A second visitor, Willard Richards, suffered only a slight wound.

Even though the leaders were dead, the attacks continued. The Mormons were forced to abandon their Illinois homes. Their exodus and long trek to Utah under Brigham Young began Feb. 4, 1846.

Lincoln's address in which he said, "A house divided against itself cannot stand." I believe this government cannot endure, permanently, half slave and half free," was delivered in what is now Springfield's Old State Capitol.

Earlier in the day Lincoln had been named "the first and only choice of the Republicans of Illinois for the United States Senate." The Lincoln-Douglas Debates followed. Although Douglas was re-elected by the legislature, Lincoln became nationally known.

Lignoul named to state banks, trust position

The former chief administrative assistant to the state treasurer has been named the No. 2 man on the Commission of Banks and Trusts by Gov. Dan Walker.

Richard K. Lignoul of Pawnee, formerly of Belleville, will serve as first deputy commissioner of banks and trust companies for a term ending in January 1977. He replaces Charles McCall who has retired.

He has worked closely with bankers in the state while advising Treasurer Allen J. Dixon of the state's billion dollar investment program and has supervised operation of the treasurer's banking and warrant divisions.

Senate passes $1.2 million Arts Council bill

"The Senate deserves an enthusiastic round of applause for decisively passing a bill that would provide $1,200,000 for the Illinois Council of the Arts," Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene said Monday.

Vadalabene, sponsor of the measure, pointed out that the bill represented a substantial increase from the $493,000 allotted to the Arts Council in the original request by the Bureau of the Budget.

"The activities of the Illinois Arts Council ought to be given high priority," Vadalabene observed. "The work of the council makes an indispensable contribution to the quality of life in the state. It recognizes the vast range of interests of all of our citizens."

"There is no way to measure the character of the inspiration provided by the Arts Council, especially in terms of the money provided them. It is literally priceless."

"The substantial margin by which the bill was passed, 34-2, indicates that the senators fully recognize this. This is one of the proudest days in all my years of service," Vadalabene concluded.

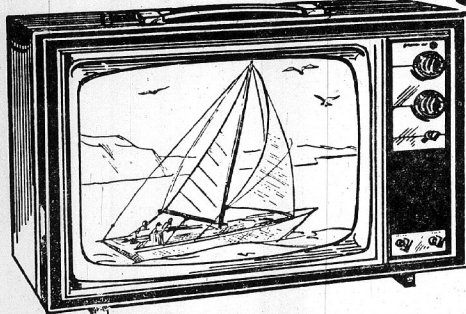

LEMAI MAN INJURED

Kenneth Frank, 25, of Lemay, Mo., was injured in an auto accident at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday on the McCambridge Avenue overpass at Madison. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital with lacerations to the scalp, right eyebrow and right cheek and was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis.

Members to be inducted in Arrow

New members will be inducted into the Cahokia Lodge, Order of the Arrow, at the group's spring convocation Friday through Sunday at Camp Sunnen near Potosi, Mo.

The Order of the Arrow is a national brotherhood of scout honor campers. To become a member, a scout or adult leader must first be elected by members of his local troop or Explorer post.

Members of the Arrow active for at least 18 months will be elevated to brotherhood status Saturday evening.

The members of the camping group will spend most of their time over the weekend in service projects, getting the camp ready for summer use. Camp Sunnen is owned and operated by the Cahokia Mountain Boy Scout Council. About 1,200 Scouts and leaders will camp there this summer.

At 9 a.m. Saturday members of the Vigil selections committee, the groups' highest honor, will hold the first in a series of meetings to select outstanding members for the honor. Jeff Talbot of Venice is chairman of the selections committee and "Mick" Strange of Madison is serving as adult advisor. Both are Vigil Honor members.

To be eligible for the Vigil, a person must have been a Brotherhood member of the Arrow for at least two years. The Vigil induction will take place in late September at the groups fall convocation.

Members and candidates for membership are to make advanced reservations to attend this coming weekend at the Boy Scout Service Center, 138a Niedringhaus Ave.

Jack Small is the Order's Master for the spring event and Dr. Thomas Layloff is the adult advisor.

The local lodge has a membership of nearly 300. Mike Bilbrey of Venice is the Cahokia Lodge's chief.

Chicago attorney earns Moose post

Armand Chiappori, a prominent Chicago attorney, has been elected to the second highest post in the Loyal Order of Moose, that of supreme junior governor.

Following his election, Chiappori was given a standing ovation by delegates and visitors at the 85th annual international convention of the Moose being held at Moosahart and the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Chiappori became affiliated with the Moose on May 21, 1942, when he joined Roseland Lodge No. 1022. He was elected prelate of the lodge in 1944 and held that office until 1947 when he was elected junior governor. He became governor in 1948 and served in that capacity for nine consecutive years.

He joined Fort Dearborn Legion in 1940 and served as treasurer three years before working his way through the chairs. He held the top post of North Moose, for two years.

Chiappori served as interfraternal council chairman of the Illinois Moose Association for three years before being elected state president in 1958, and has served since as state legislative chairman and as a member of the executive committee.

At the international convention in 1962, Chiappori was appointed an associate justice of the Supreme Forum and served as chief justice of the Forum during the 1964-65 year. He was elected Supreme Prelate in 1972.

For his service to the Moose, Chiappori was awarded the Fellowship Degree in 1945 and the Pilgrim Degree of Merit in 1954. He is also a member of the Century Division of the 25 Club.

Chiappori received his bachelor of arts degree from Georgetown University in 1932 and his law degree from the University of Kentucky in 1935. He has been practicing law in Illinois since graduation and heads his own law firm, Chiappori and Chiappori.

7,000 signs removed from state highways

Copley News Service
Springfield — Approximately 7,000 signs have been removed from Illinois' highways in accordance with the state's billboard law, according to Arch Blackard, department of transportation.

Under the law, adopted last July 1, all signs located within 660 feet of federal aid primary and interstate highways—except in business areas—must meet specific regulations as to size, lighting, placement and type. In business areas, other requirements are in effect.

Owners of signs which must come down, meeting an earlier registration deadline, will be compensated if the signs are removed.

Beginning in February, letters were sent out to owners of non-conforming, unregistered signs informing them they had 30 days to remove the signs if they wished to keep them.

"The reception of the property owners is gratifying," Blackard said. "About 20% of the signs have been removed voluntarily."

He said regional department maintenance crews are removing signs but have been hampered by additional duties incurred during the mowing season. Flooding areas also hindered removal.

The department plans, weather-permitting, to remove all delinquent signs by July 1, Blackard said. After that date, purchasing of the non-conforming, registered signs will begin.

Complete implementation of the Highway Advertising Control Act, which is the basis for the state legislation, may take another four years.

"About a year ago, the Federal Highway Authority was talking about a five-year program but nothing definite has been reached," Blackard said.

Allowed under the new law are such signs as historical markers, church signs, official and directional signs, service club signs and signs on property offering it for sale or lease, or advertising services offered on the site.

SIUE praised for minority, female hiring

In an Illinois Board of Higher Education citizen's committee report otherwise critical of minority hiring and recruitment efforts at state universities, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and Edwardsville received generally high marks.

The BHE's Citizens Review Committee, in a final report after a year of study and campus surveys, said:

SIUE and SIUC are the only Illinois senior institutions (of 12 interviewed) with recognized campus Affirmative Action programs where "specific actions have been taken to effect campus hiring practices and hiring practices of firms conducting business with campus officers."

The same two schools are the only ones where participation in campus-related labor relations is considered a part of Affirmative Action programs.

—SIUC and SIUE are the only schools where the Affirmative Action director has been given formal authority to initiate minority hiring practices or intervene in institutional practices.

—The two are among five of the 12 schools where the Affirmative Action program director has been given specific time commitments to perform the duties of his office. The others are Northern Illinois University, Illinois State University and the University of Illinois at Urbana.

The committee, chaired by Illinois Sen. Richard H. Newhouse, Jr. (D., Chicago), was formed in 1972 to examine academic and nonacademic employment practices at the 13 state senior universities (the U. of I. Medical Center did not participate in the Affirmative Action interviews).

Included were surveys and recommendations on Civil Service practices, minority student recruitment, and policies on retaining campus vendors and contractors.

Work of the 13-man committee also involved public hearings at four university campuses.

The 153-page report concludes that state universities have responded to equal opportunity regulations in "token fashion" and that the entire Illinois higher education systems has not set up a program designed to give equal job opportunities to minorities, including women.

Recommendations include a statewide Affirmative Action office under the Illinois Board of Higher Education; more minority, women and labor representation on college and university governing boards; full-time Affirmative Action officers for all institutions, responsible for implementing federal equal employment guidelines; elimination of all Civil Service examinations not specifically job related; and strengthened recruiting efforts aimed at minority students and faculty.

Railroad crossing repairs urged by mayor and council

Efforts are under way by the Granite City Council to force railroad crossing repairs and achieve railroad grade separation funding for crossings west of downtown Granite City.

Mayor Paul Schuler reported that he, Alderman R. E. Robertson of the Fourth Ward and Alderman Everett Morlen of the First Ward met with Commerce Commission officials in Springfield Monday to discuss repairs at the 19th and 20th streets and Niedringhaus Avenue crossings.

He also said they discussed funding for possible grade separations at 19th, 20th and 22nd streets. "It may be preliminary, but at least we have the ball rolling," Schuler told the council.

He related that ICC officials said an inspector was in Granite City Monday studying the crossings in question.

Robertson said after Monday night's meeting that the city and the state Department of Transportation must reach agreement on the 20th Street crossing because it is a state highway.

In other business, the Council referred a $120,000 maintenance program and contractual engineering agreement with Sheppard, Morgan and Schwaab, engineers, for maintenance of city streets, to the street and alley committee for study. A resolution transferring $100,000 in motor fuel tax funds into the maintenance fund, however, was placed on final passage and was approved unanimously.

Alderman Gerald Parmley of the Sixth Ward requested that Lionel Portell, street superintendent, install at all four-way stop intersections small signs under the stop signs informing drivers of the four-way stop.

He said the signs, either made by the street department or purchased by them, would be similar to small signs now being used at three-way stop intersections.

The Council authorized Portell to expend funds necessary to purchase or make the signs for the four-way stop intersections.

Alderman Roy Poulos of the Third Ward asked if money is available to purchase new street signs in areas where the signs have deteriorated. Poulos said his department does not have the funds at this time but that he will include a street name sign program in his new budget to be considered by the council late this month.

Portell told the council a sanitary sewer inspection team from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency is working in the southern portion of the state and should visit Granite City in the next week or two.

The inspection is necessary before the city can apply for federal funds to help repair sewers damaged by the recent high water table.

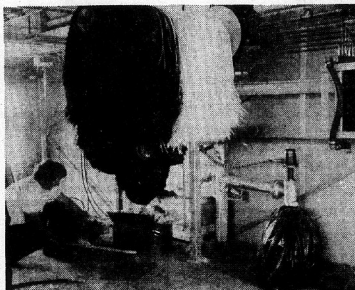

Permission was granted to Calvary Baptist Church, 3000 Washington Ave., to break curbing in front of the church to provide an area where the church bus can pull off the street to pick up children.

Permission also was given for the church to pour concrete in a small grass area between the sidewalk and the street near the pickup point, if the work is done under the supervision of the superintendent of streets.

Mount Zion General Baptist Church, 21st and Benton streets, was given permission for a Bible school parade Saturday starting at 10:30 a.m. at the church and going to Wilson Park.

Complaints from several aldermen were heard about tractor-trailer trucks blocking 22nd Street at Benton Street while making deliveries. Assistant Chief of Police George Teller said police will attempt to keep the street open and will issue citations to truck drivers when the street is blocked.

The aldermen also questioned whether trailers can be parked overnight on 22nd Street, and Teller said they are in violation of the law only if the trailer is heavier than the street load limit allows.

Alderman Steve Basarich of the Fifth Ward requested that the police watch a tavern more closely where he said patrons were disorderly. He also complained of motorcycles parked on the sidewalk often at the tavern.

'Music under stars' rehearsals next week

"Music under the stars" summer concert in Wilson Park will start Tuesday, June 26, with rehearsals beginning Monday in the choral room at Granite City High School.

Laurence Berry, who will direct the concert series again this season, said volunteers are needed for the choral presentations, ranging from fourth grade youngsters to high school, college age youth and adults.

Special rehearsals for the younger chorus, composed of boys and girls in the fourth through eighth grades, will take place Mondays and Thursdays from 11 a.m. until noon.

Young people and adults will rehearse from 7:30 until 9 p.m. on the same two days each week.

Initial practice and orientation sessions for both groups are scheduled Monday, Berry said. Additional information concerning the concert series may be obtained by calling the Wilson Park office at 877-3059.

Plans call for four performances during the summer months, with the initial program featuring music from "Man of La Mancha," together with such numbers as "Allie," "Morning Has Broken" and "Killing Me Softly With His Song."

Featured soloists will be Mrs. Lois Bilberry, Mrs. June Nightwing Branding and Paul Mayberry.

The concerts will be presented in the Wilson Park pavilion, which affords a roofed area in the event of rain and open sides to permit cooling breezes to penetrate the arena, Berry said.

A concert pianist, Berry holds a bachelor of arts degree in music from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and

Scientist looks 50 years ahead

By FRANK MACOMBER
Military-Aerospace Writer
Copley News Service

"Foam" metals that behave like wood and can be sawed, nailed or carved.

Glass of a quality far superior to that produced today.

Perfectly round ball bearings that could provide a new mobility for wheels.

These are some of the achievements envisioned by German-born Dr. Krafft Ehrhike when man eventually travels into space to manufacture materials now produced on earth.

The key to these miracle materials, says the executive adviser to International Rockwell's formerly North American-Rockwell

Space Division, is their production in the weightlessness of space, probably in workshops orbiting the moon or perhaps in laboratories on the moon itself.

And the first step toward that time — perhaps 50 years from now — will be experiments in zero gravity production techniques during the Skylab missions, predicts Dr. Ehrhike, a World War II colleague of famed space scientist Dr. Werner Von Braun, in Germany's Peenemunde laboratories.

"A complete absence of gravity also will allow the production of many medical drugs at less cost and greater purity," Dr. Ehrhike predicts.

"Metals will be so pure that many of the 'foam' variety can be sawed or nailed like wood, without losing their tremendous strength. Eye-glasses produced in space will be far superior to those manufactured here on earth."

Some space-produced materials will be returned to earth for assembly into commercial products, while others perhaps will be assembled outside earth's gravity pull, Dr. Ehrhike points out.

The scientist who helped design and engineer the Con-vaire built Centaur second-stage missile which today is a workhorse for many unmanned U.S. space probes makes these exotic projects of the future sound as though they were only months away.

Yet, Dr. Ehrhike concedes it may be half a century before they come to pass.

"It's like the Old West," he explains. "The government had to finance the railroads to cross the country before Americans could migrate West. Today the government must finance space transportation systems to make possible the manufacturing of superior items beyond earth's influence."

That, he explains, is what Skylab and the later manned space shuttle system are all about.

Dr. Ehrhike estimates it would cost about $500 billion over a 50-year period to develop space manufacturing as a going concern.

"Private industry already is interested," he says, "but it cannot go to work in space until the government has built the transportation system."

Dr. Ehrhike also envisions one eventual space-based solution to the nation's growing energy problems. Once the fast-breeder nuclear reactor is operational, producing more atomic fuel than it uses, electricity could be relayed into space and bounced back to where it is needed, thus eliminating the costly and dangerous strings of high-voltage transmission lines which lace the nation and bring protests from environmentalists, he explains.

Book review -- Kerouac never felt at home

KEROUAC: by Ann Charters; Straight Arrow Books; 367 pages; $7.95.

Reviewed by ROBERT LAURENCE
Copley News Service

Jack Kerouac became famous as the man who made the "Beat Generation" famous. He went to the parties, was along on the mad cross-country trips, became friends with Allen Ginsberg and William Burroughs when they were all in their early 20s, heard Ginsberg present "Howl" at San Francisco poetry readings.

Yet, he never felt really at home, and therein lies the sadness of his life, and the sadness that pervades his biography.

He became identified with all those furious, reckless trips driving across the United States, with the frenzied energy of his friend, Neal Cassady, when he immortalized as Dean Moriarty in "On the Road." He gave the Beat Generation its name.

But what many readers, especially the young ones who came to idolize the Kerouac of their minds, failed to notice was that Kerouac wasn't driving the cars. He was along for the ride, taking it all in.

"You know what I'm thinking when I'm in the midst of all that — the uprooting, the boozing, the wildness? I'm always thinking, What am I doing here? Is this the way I'm supposed to feel?" he confessed once.

"He was always primarily a writer and not a person," Burroughs said after Kerouac's death. "He felt that everything he was doing as a person he was pretending to do."

Kerouac himself was not a good driver, and a bit inept as a traveler.

He always returned to his mother, was living with her and his wife when he died at the age of 47, bloated from too much drink, in St. Petersburg, Fla.

In his 30s, already famous, he traveled to California by train, a St. Christopher medal sewn to the flap of his rucksack by his mother, who had also packed him some sandwiches and a jar of instant coffee.

His life was filled with ironies. He became famous as an American vagabond, and did travel incessantly across the United States and into Mexico, but by the time fame came, most of the traveling was over. So was most of the writing.

He liked to think that his prose was spontaneous, and that's the way it read. But it took years from the time he first wrote his best book, "On the Road," and the time it was published in 1957. Endless re-writing and polishing came between.

Joan Baez' album has political message

By JUDY HUGG
Copley News Service

Joan Baez, one of the world's legends in folk music, has cut an album that is sure to set many a person back on their heels.

"Where Are You Now, My Son?" on ADM Records is a masterfully done political message. The title cut, on side two, is Joan's debut as a narrator for a documentary.

"Where Are You Now?" is taken from her experience's last winter while visiting in Hanoi. The terror and horror of the war is brought into your living room by on-location sounds of American bombs falling on Hanoi last Christmas, the moaning cries of Vietnamese people in agony and a bomb shelter chat with its occupants about life. Side two is definitely one of the most powerful poem-narrative's ever to have been cut in plastic.

Side one on the other hand is the Joan Baez that most people are familiar with. The well-textured voice singing beautiful yet sad songs. It starts out with a nicely done "Only Heaven Knows" and is followed up by several short folk-art song-poems written by herself, Mimi Farina and Hoyt Axton. These include "Less Than The Song" and "Best of Friends" and winds up with a splendid instrumental called "Windrose."

The LP will go down in history marking another struggle in our times — truly a collector's item.

The Country-Western fan should be pleased with RCA's recent releases, Chet Atkins' "Alone," Lester Flatt's "Country Boy" and Carolyn Hester's latest, simply titled, "Carolyn Hester."

This is one of Chet Atkins' best efforts. It's understood why he is known as the "classic" poet of the strings." His rendition of "Just As I Am" is great.

Lester Flatt is the country boy. He's great on "One Bad Case of the Blues," "My Little Girl's Little Girl" and his own "The Country Boy." Extra added attractions on this disc are two instrumental numbers, "Feudin' Banjos" and "Nashville Grass Breakdown."

Carolyn Hester sings several of her own songs on this outstanding album. She has dedicated this release to her mentally retarded sister, Donna. Her song "My Little Sister Donna" says it all. As Carolyn explains on the cover, "she may not be able to understand all the words — but she'll know it's about her."

Leonard Bernstein and Philip Entenmont make a great combination, and they combine their musical genius on a new Columbia two-record LP called "The Great Romantic Piano Concertos."

Entenmont, the French pianist who debuted in this country 20 years ago (he's still only 30), has the power and crystal-edged technique to bring out the full beauty of the Tchaikovsky "Concerto No. 1 in B-Flat" and Grieg's "Concerto in A Minor," while also possessing the sensitivity required in the poetic "Concerto No. 2" by Rachmaninoff. So here you have them under one tent: the three piano concertos that most symbolize music's romantic era. Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic form a rainbow of musical color around the Entenmont piano. The sound engineering on this LP is outstanding.

Presley sends tips soaring in Tahoe

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — I thought there'd be some rich dining room captains at the Sahara Tahoe after Elvis' recent opening there, so many big tips were crossing palms in exchange for good tables.

Tens and twenties were flying all over the place.

However, a hotel bus driver who delivered me to the Reno airport the next morning assured that the captains wouldn't keep the hefty gratuities, but rather, would pool them to be divided amongst all dining room personnel.

He also said that no star creates the excitement at Tahoe that Elvis does, which isn't surprising, since the same holds true in Vegas and everywhere else Presley appears.

Col. Tom Parker had stumped up a bit of excitement himself at the Lake resort by accepting delivery there of his new Cadillac station wagon.

The driver who'd met Elvis when he'd flown into the Tahoe airport said he'd failed to recognize the star at first because El was wearing a hat with a broad, soft brim and a purple cape.

Now who else did he think would come to Tahoe dressed like that? I wonder?

I visited Elvis in his dressing room just before he went on, and thought he looked tired. But, once he hit the stage, he was the super-charged super-star who drives the girls crazy.

A young woman sitting near me whose husband had tipped $10 for their near-ride seats wasn't clapping, so I thought she didn't like the show, but it turned out that she was paralyzed with excitement. Or that's what she said.

As usual, Elvis gave a few kisses and a few scars to the girls who swarmed over the footlight, but to one, he gave a stern reminder.

Dropping the line in between lyrics in a voice so soft it only carried a few feet, he said, "I told you not to come around here again."

I don't know who she was, but she wasn't Patricia Parker.

Water pollution control programs in state revamped

Springfield — Some programs will be expanded, some will be continued, and some permit processes may become easier under the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency's proposed water pollution control program for the coming year.

Public hearings have been scheduled for Springfield, Carbondale and Chicago to hear public comments, objections or suggestions in connection with the plan, scheduled to go into effect July 1.

The overall program emphasizes integration of the state's program with the federal program which Congress set up last fall. One important aspect of this linkage of state and federal water pollution control programs, according to Jack M. Marco, acting EPA director, would be a new federal permit system which can be administered by the states under certain conditions.

If a state, like Illinois, meets federal requirements, Marco said, that state can issue permits for discharges to the nation's waterways, which otherwise must be obtained from federal sources.

Legislative action will be required and Marco said the state EPA is hopeful it can secure legislative approval in the current session of the General Assembly so that dischargers won't have to apply for both state and federal permits. The House has already approved such legislation.

As now drawn, the planned permits would include discharge limitations and, where there is non-compliance with the limits, would set a schedule for required compliance. Strict monitoring requirements are also planned, as well as safeguards against accidental pollution spills. Penalties would be stiffer than the current penalties for violation of permits, or for failure to secure a permit.

Other aspects of the proposed control program for fiscal 1974 would include continuation of grants to aid municipalities in constructing sewage treatment facilities, continued programs of planning for each of the 13 major river basins in the state, continued vigorous enforcement efforts, expanded systems of effluent and water quality monitoring and reporting, and an expanded program of training and certifying treatment plant operators. New emphasis is planned on biological monitoring.

Meet to end freeze on parking construction

A freeze on construction of a parking lot at the Schnuck's-Carp's shopping center development on Nameoki Road, due to questions concerning drainage, may be near an end, Bob Kelly, Granite City building inspector, told the City Council Monday night.

Kelly said he has been meeting with engineers for construction firms working on the building and on the parking area in an attempt to reach agreement on a drainage plan for the lot that would protect nearby property. The dispute brought a response from Alderman Gerald Parmley of the Sixth Ward, he said the problem shows the need for a full-time city engineer. Parmley said an engineer is needed to study such an issue before approval can be given by the building inspector.

"We can't keep going on the basis of project engineers. We need a city engineer," Parmley told the aldermen.

Kelly said he will not need an engineer if the engineers of the two construction companies involved can reach agreement on a solution. A project or city engineer will be necessary if agreement cannot be reached, he added.

Kelly said a meeting with the construction companies' engineers has been set for Friday. Parmley made a motion to allow Kelly to enter into a contract with a consulting engineer to study the problem if he feels he will need one before agreement can be reached. The motion was approved unanimously by the council.

The City Council voted on May 29 to halt work on the parking lot only until drainage questions can be answered.

'Pizza Principle' lets woman pay

By AUDREY GELLIS
Copy News Service

Women's Liberation has consistently counseled that women play the "dating game" by the same rules as men, taking the initiative in meeting, dating and forming relationships.

However, many women who admit they're tired of sitting by the phone are still afraid to pick it up. Suppose, they ask, men stop paying for dates.

Now I know that changing the dating rules before women earn as much money as men does pose problems. So I consulted my friend, Sheila the Select Swinger.

Way before Women's Lib, Sheila decided men controlled everything, so she made a study of men. Sheila's research has yet to yield the rich husband she's looking for, but as she's quick to point out, she does not collect on her telephone.

"For a liberated woman I'm surprised at you," Sheila told me over a drink at her favorite singles bar. "Don't you realize it's a myth that the man always pays?"

"But," I insisted, "you know the man picks up the checks on dates. The few times I've suggested going Dutch, my dates reacted like I said Danish."

"The man does pay," Sheila replied, "but only in public. It's what I call the Pizza Principle. If the pizza comes from her freezer, she pays. If they go to a pizzeria, he pays."

"Let me illustrate further," Sheila continued. "What happens after a man takes a woman out once or twice?"

"She invites him to dinner."

"And how much does that cost?"

I mentally tabulated the latest price of steak and threw in the cost of wine, candles and other accessories to a romantic dinner for two. "Almost as much as dinner at an average restaurant. Not to mention the time spent preparing the food."

"Exactly," Sheila said. "Now let's say you develop a relationship. Are you going to be out on the town or will you be watching TV at your place, drinking your liquor and nibbling on the goodies in your fridge?"

"Then men don't mind if we pay, as long as they don't see us doing it."

"Right," she said. "However, the Pizza Principle can also get a single woman out of the catering business. For example, if I want to introduce a new man into my life, I buy two tickets to a play or movie, invite him and say my boss or a sick friend gave me the tickets."

"But that's too expensive for most women," I said.

"Not when you add it up my way. If I didn't have a date, I would buy one ticket and go with another woman, and then we'd stop for something afterwards. It's something afterwards is the price of another ticket. Now if I buy two tickets and invite a man, he generally treats for the rest of the evening. And I'm dating a man I chose, not whoever happened to call me."

"But doesn't the man you

Two-year-old sets day's good mood

By DR. WILLARD
ABRAHAM
Copy News Service

Q. Our two-year-old gets into bed with us every morning, and frankly we love it! He's warm, cuddly, playful and happy, providing a great way to start the day. But what happens later — when he's five, or ten, or even older? Maybe I'm just talking it myself that we'd better stop right now. What do you think?

A. You're anticipating a problem that will no doubt never occur. Why not enjoy your youngster, and let time invite over guess you really bought the tickets?" I asked.

"Sure. But as long as I observe the Pizza Principle and don't let him see me put my hand in my pocketbook, his male ego will be undisturbed," Sheila said.

"But, Sheila, that's still being unequal. Don't you realize your whole Pizza Principle is based on the myth of male superiority?" I asked.

Sheila's gaze rested on a lake care of the situation? Toys, books, and just getting older will detract him from your bed soon enough.

Now that I've said that, there will be others who have learned from their own sad experience that some kids don't get turned off so easily. Their children's dependency has continued far beyond the two-year level. But they're the exception. So have a good time — there are too few of us who get up in a good mood, so why not cherish that feeling as long as you can?

Burt Reynolds looklike at the next table. "Are you liberated women planning to wait for the little boys being given non-sexist educations to grow up?"

"You do have a point. Suppose we talk this over with my consciousness — raising group," I said.

But Sheila wasn't listening. She was at the next table explaining how she won two tickets to a tennis match in a raffle.

Wrinkles on buying irons

By JOYCE ROARK
Copy News Service

No matter how well a clothes-dryer can prevent wrinkles, ironing is still a necessity in most households. Irons available to today's housewife come in three types: three types of three soleplates. An iron can be dry, steam, or steam-spray. The steam-spray is by far the most popular.

The soleplates can be bare aluminum, non-stick, or stainless steel. Bare aluminum scratches fairly easily and starch will build up on it making ironing difficult.

The non-stick coatings on soleplates reflect a higher price. The advantages can outweigh the additional cost. Lint and starch will not build up. Ironing one of the modern synthetics with an iron that's too hot will cause the fabric to melt and a sticky mess to result. The melted fabric will not stick to the soleplate with a non-stick coating.

Like all good things, non-stick coating will wear off with use. When this happens, the iron will perform the same as an iron with a bare aluminum soleplate. Stainless steel is moderately priced. Lint and starch will not build up on it. It's stronger than aluminum so it resists scratching better. Stainless steel is the longest lasting of soleplates.

If you are going to use a steam iron, then you would expect it to have proper steam to press garments. However, not all steam irons have a good steam system. Good steam is dependent on the amount and uniformity of the steam. The size, number and placement of the holes is important. The larger the holes, the more steam that can be produced. The more holes, the better the distribution of steam. The placement of the holes is by far the most important factor. If the holes are placed around the edge only, then that is where the steam will be. The center of the iron will be a dry iron only. The best placement is an all-over pattern. This type will have more chance of having pins, etc. getting caught in the holes, and foreign particles clogging the holes.

The heat settings are not always accurate and experimentation will be necessary. Sprays should be a fine mist. The finer the mist, the less chance there is of water spotting your clothes. The closer the beginning of the moistened area to the iron, the better.

Some sprays are continuous when the button is down. Others need the button pumped to produce a spray. This can be tiring.

The handle should be comfortable to hold. A reversible cord is nice if you're left-handed or if a member of your family is left-handed. Some irons require a screwdriver to reverse the cord while others just plug in and out.

The thermostat controls should be at the front of the handle where they are easiest to see and adjust.

A funnel shape opening is easier to fill if it's not obstructed by an overhanging spray nozzle.

An indicator for the water level in the tank is advisable. The tube style is best. The iron should be stable when set on the heel rest.

While ads say you can use regular tap water in an iron, it's not recommended if you live in an area of very hard water.

New ideas make life easier for homemaker

By CLYDE V. SMITH
Copy News Service

Products for the home are constantly being refined, improved, redesigned or otherwise given refreshing appeal through ingenious glamor techniques.

New product development involves more than a bright idea by a designer or a research engineer.

In many cases completely new materials, shapes, sizes or colors are involved. One company that has been a leader in innovation in the home furnishings industry — Corning Glass Works — reports that many of the product ideas which it originates are reviewed and evaluated by consumers before they are marketed. It applies this consumer research to solve problems and meet changing life-styles.

It may be something as simple as eliminating pouring spouts on coffee makers to something dramatic as the smoothing looking concept that eliminates the chore of cleaning messy burner wells.

As the originator of the smoothtop cooking concept, Corning was the first to show it at the National Association of Home Builders show several years ago. This year many of the leading appliance manufacturers displayed their own versions of the ceramic built-in cooking surface.

Corning introduced its new "electromatic" percolators and skillets, ideal for serving and cooking at the table. Corning said the electric housewares market, estimated at $2.5 billion and growing, is expected to exceed $3.5 billion annually by 1975 and $5 billion by 1980. The appliance market is highly diverse, ranging from electric cooking appliances to numerous personal care products such as facial saunas and hot combs.

Again this year, the most spectacular innovations and new products showed up in kitchens and bathrooms.

At another showing, what is described as the forerunner of "a completely computerized kitchen" was introduced and should be on the market by midyear. It is a new electric range with touch controls.

This "touch and cook range" with illuminated digital information system does not offer much more from its logic circuit at the moment than the range a housewife might now use — but it provides a new easy way to do it all, a self-cleaning unit that operates at a touch and a sleek surface cooking panel. There are no knobs or holes on the control panel, just an easy-maintenance lighted numerical display.

With its integrated circuits, solid state components and touch system, the new range is part of the fully computerized kitchen that should be under production within the decade, said John Weibel, chief engineer of the Frigidaire Division of General Motors.

He believes changes will be speeded up as women become familiar with and accept the new way of cooking, but it is thought that women do not yet want to reduce their cooking and baking completely to push buttons.

Meanwhile, the new range will offer a digital display that indicates settings for time and cooking functions, a preheat cycle automatically programmed with use of the oven, surface units that may be turned off automatically after a preset time, a cook-and-hold feature to keep foods warm for delayed meals, and a recall feature to check functions that have been selected on the control panel. One advantage for senior citizens is the opportunity to use an automatic turnoff at night.

Glamor is still the keynote for new fixtures and new design in bathrooms. The same is true with floor and wall coverings.

New ideas in plastics for the bath and kitchen were spotlighted by Bradley Corp.'s faucet and special products division.

The company displayed prototypes of three new product lines and announced they would be available later this year, including a new chrome-finish single-handle plastic faucet for bath and kitchen, a new line of acrylic marble bathtubs in five-foot lengths, and a new thermoplastic kitchen faucet for narrow-deck sinks, in five colors, no less.

Novaglas Corp. of Long Island City in New York has developed a new molded fiberglass bathtub in classic Greco-Roman styling to add the look of elegance and luxury to the bathroom.

INNOVATIVE DESIGN—(Upper left) Steel studs snap easily into floor and ceiling tracks, estimated to result in lower "in-place" costs than comparable wood joists. (Upper right) Forerunner of a completely computerized kitchen is this new range which eliminates some of the conventional electro-mechanical components and replaces them with a glass, touch-panel, integrated circuits and solid state components. Information display system is digital. (Lower left) Bathroom glamor combines elegance with functional qualities. The contemporary medicine cabinet combines storage as well as illumination and comes in three color combinations. (Lower right) Starflame 400 is billed as the first fireplace forced air heater combination, reported to be the only forced air heating system which gives the aesthetic advantages of a fireplace.

46 new scuba divers qualify at club dive

More than 100 divers attended the annual diving meet of the Bubblermasters Scuba Club of Granite City held at Oakland Boat Dock at Bull Shoals Lake, Ark.

The event featured spargun competition, treasure hunts and an annual contest matching the Bubblermasters against the Masketeers Club of Alton. In the latter contest, the Granite City divers again scored top points to win a traveling trophy and earn a fish fry party, traditionally hosted by the losing club later in the summer.

Forty-six student divers, who were instructed at the Tri-City Area YMCA, received certification during the two-day dive.

Ed Duffin of the Granite City club, high point diver in 1972 competition, secured the most fish in the contest. Paul Carrico and Phil Lamb, both Bubblermasters, captured first and second-place trophies, respectively, in the largest fish category.

Earning second and third place awards in the most fish division were Ron Ruppel, Bubblermasters, and Alan Sanders of the Masketeers.

Rich Griskard of the Granite City diving squad received an air tank, donated by East Side

Divers Supply, as the top contest in the treasure hunt. A total of $500 in diving equipment was donated by the Granite City supply firm in the contest.

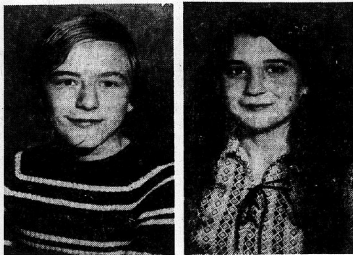

A record number of divers took part in the meet, despite the lake being 33 feet above normal water levels and half of the campground under water. Divers and their families joined forces for a winner roast and fish fry during the weekend.

Nursing school enrollment to be limited at SIUE

Enrollment in the undergraduate nursing program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will be limited to the first time for the 1973-74 academic year, according to Lucille McClelland, dean of the SIUE Nursing Division.

Applications for admission to the undergraduate program have tripled within the last two years, according to Dean McClelland, and within the last year, 200 to 300 freshmen and pre-nursing students have sought admission.

"With budgetary restrictions and a reduction of funds to the Nursing Division this year by the Illinois Board of Higher Education, it is impossible to serve this number of students," Dean McClelland said.

There are about 270 students currently enrolled in the undergraduate nursing program at SIUE.

As a result of enrollment limitations, students being considered for admittance must have a grade-point-average of 3.5. Previously, the grade-point-average was set at 3.0 (a "C" average).

Provisions will be made, however, for up to 10% of the total enrollment to be admitted by committee action on criteria other than the grade-point-average, Dean McClelland said.

"We now have a faculty/student ratio of one to eight, and we don't feel we have the faculty or space to accommodate a larger number of students than we now have in the program," Dean McClelland said.

Appointments to city air pollution, appeals boards

Seven appointments to city posts made Monday night by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler were confirmed by the City Council without discussion.

Three members were named to the city board of zoning appeals, including George Vailcoff, whose term is to run through April 30, 1974, and Fred Barr, who will serve through April 30, 1976.

Henry Bieniecki was reappointed to the city air pollution control board to serve until 1978 and William Rotter was appointed to serve the same term on the air board. Charles Ruder was the third appointment to that body, his term ending in 1974.

Mrs. Nadine Harrison was reappointed as secretary to the chief of police through April 30, 1974.

The aldermen gave their approval for Donald Parente, fire chief, to attend the University of Illinois fire college in Champaign June 14-17. Expenses of $163 were allowed for the trip.

A vacation request by Dr. Reid, assistant technical secretary of the city air pollution control department, was granted for two weeks beginning June 25. Ted Macdonald, who now performs several functions for the department, was named to act in Sutton's behalf during his vacation.

State to open bids for restaurant equipment

The Illinois Department of General Services has announced the opening of bids June 15 from small businesses for restaurant equipment, according to Bill Gray, coordinator of small businesses in the department.

Bids for restaurant equipment will be opened that Friday at 10:30 a.m. in the department's procurement division in the State Office Building, Springfield.

Bidding has been set aside for small businesses to compete for the state contract as specified in the Illinois Small Business Purchasing Act.

Gray said that a small businessman is a wholesaler not exceeding $5 million in annual sales, a retailer not exceeding

YMCA adopts three-way policy on memberships

The YMCA has adopted a new membership policy after studying various programs of membership and fees in relation to overall financing.

Kent Dunn, membership director, said a new three-way system will allow more equitable division of program cost among participants. Many youth programs and activities will still be subsidized by concerned individuals and the United Fund.

Many YMCA's in the area use $1 million in annual sales or a manufacturer employing no more than 250 persons.

Specifications and bid documents may be obtained from Bill Gray, Department of General Services, Room 801, State Office Building, Springfield, or by calling 217-525-2249.

The first part consists of a low cost annual participating membership required by a 11 participants. For youths, all ages through high school, the annual participating membership is $5; adults 18 and up $10; and family, $15, which includes husband, wife and children in the youth category and/or dependents under 24.

The second part consists of an activity fee, which may be purchased on an annual, quarterly or daily basis, allowing use of specific facilities and recreational programs according to schedule. The activity fees range from $75 a year for Health Club and related facilities to a day pass of

Hunting dates for deer, upland game announced

The Illinois Conservation Advisory Board has approved deer season dates and opening dates for upland game for the 1973 season.

Anthony T. Dean, director of the Department of Conservation, announced that the shotgun season for deer will be Nov. 16, 17 and 18 and Dec. 7, 8 and 9. The bow and arrow season for deer will be Oct. 1 through Nov. 11, Nov. 19 through Dec. 2 and Dec. 10 through Dec. 31. Counties open to shotgun hunting will be announced later, Dean said.

He added the upland game season will begin at sunrise Nov. 10. Shooting hours will be specified in the Illinois Standard Shooting Timetable. Closing dates and bag limits for the season will be determined after biologists have made summer census counts of the various species.

"Our primary concern is to let hunters know when the seasons begin as soon as possible," Dean said. "Many sportsmen plan their vacations around these dates and we want to let them know these times as early in the year as possible."

It is the intention of the department to hold the deer season on the third weekend of November and the second weekend of December each year, and to open the upland game season on the second Saturday of each November.
